U.S. airstrikes: 39 suspected fleeing terrorists nabbed in Ondo

By Barnabas Olabisi
Akure

Ondo security network agency, codenamed Amotekun Corps, has arrested 39 suspects allegedly escaping from the northern parts into the state.

The escape is coming on the heels of the Christmas Day airstrike launched on terrorists in Sokoto state by the United States military in cooperation with the federal government of Nigeria.

Similarly, the Corps also apprehended 61 other suspected kidnappers, armed robbers, car snatchers and anti-open grazing offenders during the festive period.

The state commander of Amotekun corps, Akogun Adetunji Adeleye, disclosed this in Akure while parading over 100 suspects to newsmen who were nabbed in different parts of state during the "Operation Le won jade," by the corps.

Adeleye said the 39 suspected bandits, who were arrested at an area he described as 'black spots' at Elegbeka Forest in Ose local government area, were still being profiled for possible prosecution or repatriation to Sokoto and other northern states, noting that the

All set for January 1 take-off of new tax laws, implementation irreversible – Tinubu

- ➡ Pledges to work closely with NASS on genuine concerns
- ➡ How system'll provide relief for low income earners – Tax c'ttee

By Abdullahi M. Gulloma and Benjamin Umuteme, Abuja

President Bola Ahmed Tinubu has said the federal government will proceed with the implementation of Nigeria's new tax laws from January 1, 2026, insisting that there will be no reversal or suspension of the reforms.

The law has come under intense scrutiny following allegations of alterations.

There has been strong opposition against the commencement of the laws by some critics with many fearing that it would lead to increased tax payment by poor and vulnerable Nigerians.

WASHINGTON'S TAIWAN CARD: POKING CHINA IN THE EYE, UNDERMINING INTERNATIONAL ORDER

The U.S latest and most provocative escalation on the Taiwan question; an unprecedented $11.1 billion arms sales to China's Taiwan region, have drawn China's decisive countermeasures on U.S. military-linked companies and senior executives and which is neither impulsive nor symbolic but a calibrated step to the provocations.

The provocative actions of the U.S once again exposes a fundamental contradiction at the heart of U.S.-China policy—professing adherence to the one-China principle while steadily hollowing it out in practice. In doing so, the United States is playing with fire in one of the most sensitive fault lines in global geopolitics.

The Taiwan question is not a peripheral issue for China. It lies at the very center of China's core interests, touching sovereignty, territorial integrity, and national dignity. It is the political bedrock upon which China-U.S. relations rest and the first red line that cannot be crossed. Yet Washington continues to test this boundary, step by step, weapon shipment by weapon shipment, as if erosion through repetition could somehow rewrite political reality.

The one-China principle is not a concept merely devised by China for diplomatic convenience, but a mainstream norm of international relations that underpins the post-World War II international order. It is copiously reflected in United Nations General Assembly Resolution 2758 in 1971, which restored the lawful seat of the People's Republic of China at the United Nations and recognized it as the sole legitimate representative of China. By decisively resolving the question of China's representation and rejecting any arrangement involving "two Chinas" or "one China, one Taiwan," the resolution provides an essential international legal and political foundation for the one-China principle. This principle constitutes the political basis of China's relations with all countries, including the United States.

When China and the United States normalised relations, Washington explicitly acknowledged this reality. Such acknowledgment was neither ambiguous nor optional, but was formally codified in a series of joint political documents that continue to define the parameters of bilateral relations. Any attempt to hollow out or undermine the one-China principle, therefore, goes beyond a diplomatic disagreement; it strikes at the very foundation upon which China-U.S. relations were established and sustained, and put the U.S political credibility and integrity to test.

The premise governing China-U.S. relations on Taiwan is cast on the pillar of the three Joint Communiqués, each carrying clear obligations for the U.S. side. The 1972 Shanghai Communique marked the starting point of normalisation between the United States and China. In it, the United States stated that it "acknowledges that all Chinese on both sides of the Taiwan Strait maintain there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of China." This was a political acknowledgment of China's position, reflecting a serious step toward recognition and was never a mere rhetorical courtesy.

The 1979 Joint Communique on the Establishment of Diplomatic Relations consolidated this positions and further, the United States formally recognized the government of the People's Republic of China as the sole legal government of China and committed itself to maintaining only unofficial relations with Taiwan. Official diplomatic recognition of Beijing and military support for Taiwan are inherently incompatible, a game, the U.S has payed overtime and cannot sustain with an injury to its credibility.

The 1982 Communique addressed the arms issue directly. In it, the United States pledged that it did not seek a long-term policy of arms sales to Taiwan and that such sales would neither exceed previous levels nor grow in quality or quantity. It also expressed an intention to gradually reduce and ultimately resolve the arms sales issue.

Today's reality could not be farther from those commitments. Far from reducing arms sales, Washington has expanded them in scale, sophistication, and frequency. What was once portrayed as "defensive" has steadily morphed into systems with clear offensive and strategic implications. The gap between U.S. words and actions has become so wide that credibility itself has fallen through the cracks and the Washington elite must bear responsibility to increasing tensions in one of the world's most important economic arteries with implications for seamless trade and other crucial economic intercourse to the global community.

The United States claims that its arms sales are meant to preserve "peace and stability" across the Taiwan Strait collapses under scrutiny are posturing that cannot stand the rigour of basic scrutiny. Pouring advanced weaponry into a sensitive region does not extinguish flames; it fans them. It emboldens separatist elements on the island, distorts threat perceptions, and raises the risk of miscalculation.

Encouraged by U.S. backing, the Democratic Progressive Party (DPP) authorities in the Taiwan region have increasingly indulged in the dangerous illusion of "seeking independence with external support." Arms purchases are framed as security guarantees, yet in reality, they turn Taiwan into a forward outpost and a potential battlefield. The island is being transformed into a pawn on a geopolitical chessboard, its safety wagered for Washington's strategic games.

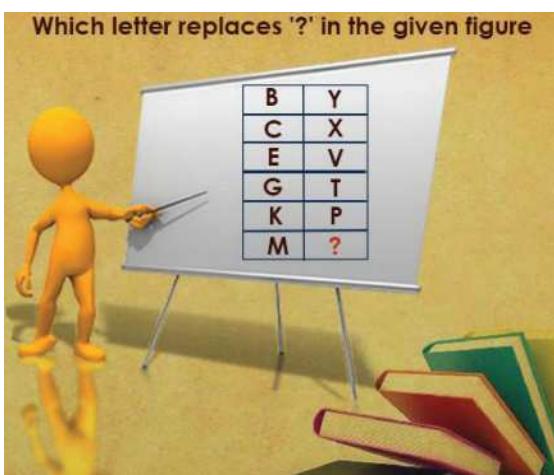

Meanwhile, Taiwan residents are asked to foot the bill—billions diverted from social welfare, infrastructure, and public services into overpriced weapons that line the pockets of U.S. military contractors. It is a textbook case of selling fear at a premium, offering sugar-coated poison under the guise of security.

■ The federal government Tuesday said it harbours no plans to unlawfully arrest, detain or prosecute opposition figures. A statement signed by the Minister of Information and National Orientation, Alhaji Mohammed Idris, noted that the clarification is in response to a fabricated document in circulation, alleging the establishment of a non-existent multi-agency task force for a purported programme tagged "ADP4VIP" (Arrest, Detain, Prosecute for Very Important Persons). 6

■ Taraba state governor, Dr Agbu Kefas, Tuesday, said that 2026 would be a year of consolidation and conclusions of many lofty plans for Tarabans. Kefas in a statement signed by his Special Adviser on Media and Digital Communications, Hon Emmanuel Bello, and made available to journalists in Jalingo, hinted that 2026 will be a very busy year. "The year 2026 promises to be a very busy year. Politicking will kick into overdrive, and the power permutations will hit the super highway." 10

■ Deputy Speaker of the House of Representatives, Hon. Benjamin Kalu, has announced plans to stimulate economic development in Abia state through a one billion naira support package for 2,000 Small and Medium-Scale Enterprises (SMEs). Speaking during a town hall meeting of the Renewed Hope Partners (RHP) in Bende local government area of the state on Monday, where he distributed trailer loads of rice, other food items and cash to over 100 churches, the All Progressives Congress (APC), and various support groups, Kalu said the initiative was part of the Renewed Hope Partners programme to empower residents across the 17 Local Government Areas of Abia State. 14

■ At least 640 residents of Otukpa in Ogbadibo local government area of Benue state have received free medical treatment during a community outreach organised by Dr Patrick Onogwu, Special Emissary of the International Society of Diplomats (ISD), in collaboration with the MEG Cancer Foundation. The initiative, which far exceeded its initial target of 200 patients, provided a wide range of services, including blood pressure checks, malaria parasite tests, Widal tests, hepatitis screening, random blood sugar and red blood cell checks. 15

WHITHER THE NIGERIAN UNIVERSITY SYSTEM? (3)

As I was concluding this article last week, news broke of a significant milestone in the ASUU-FGN impasse: FGN and ASUU had signed a comprehensive agreement signaling the end of the 8-year ASUU industrial action. It was an impasse that cost billions of naira in lost person-hours, unquantifiable economic losses, and, in some cases, the supreme price. The tragic case of a professor who was neck-deep in debt due to the imposed "no-work, no-pay" policy, watching the news on TV when it was announced that the "no-work, no-pay" policy would be sustained even after suspending the 2022 ASUU industrial action, resulting in the professor's fatal cardiac arrest. There were a few reported and unreported cases of hardship stemming from the perennial ASUU strikes, which are now history, owing to the determination of the President Tinubu administration to end them.

I salute Mr. President Tinubu, Education Minister, Dr. M. O. Alausa, and ASUU leadership for the amicable resolution of the impasse, may it be a long-lasting one. As stated in this article, the system is tired of perennial strikes, and the government has a key to preventing future strikes by genuinely engaging with ASUU to find a lasting solution, which it is now using. All stakeholders – members of the National Assembly, civil servants, university administrators, staff unions, staff, and students – must commit to supporting the government in sustaining the gains of reaching this milestone and in enabling our university system to face the Herculean tasks of teaching, research, and community service. Technology is rapidly evolving, and the world is moving at supersonic speed. The Nigerian university system cannot be left behind.

It needs tremendous support from primary stakeholders – the government, university workers, and the general public – to be on par with its peers in other countries. The signing of the agreement by the FGN and ASUU signals the consolidation of the needed support for the system. Indeed, Nigeria will benefit from it. The agreement's contents offer hope that Nigeria will achieve technological advancement sooner than later, as the university remains a central pillar supporting sectoral development across society. The agreement focuses on conditions of service, funding, university autonomy, and academic freedom, as well as other systemic reforms aimed at reversing decay, curbing brain drain, and repositioning universities for national development. The key agreement under Conditions of Service includes a 40% upward review of academic staff emoluments. It reaffirms pension provisions under existing laws, granting professors a pension equal to their annual salary upon retirement at age 70, subject to defined service requirements and recognition of approved service periods.

A major highlight is the proposed National Research Council (NRC), which would fund research at a minimum of 1% of GDP, strengthen innovation, and support research in universities as centers of excellence. The agreement strongly affirms university autonomy and academic freedom, emphasising merit-based governance, elected academic leadership (deans/provosts). The provosts/deans of postgraduate schools will now be elected, with only professors eligible to contest. The establishment of NRC can enable Nigeria to produce a series of innovations that can shape the future of global technological initiatives in health, communication, agriculture, and other related developmental sectors. We must recall that, in the 21st century, universities have been central to several of the most impactful breakthroughs, particularly in biomedicine, artificial intelligence, and fundamental physics. Discoveries like CRISPR gene editing and the rapid development of mRNA vaccines have had a profound global impact.

Key breakthroughs in university research in the 21st century include the CRISPR Gene-Editing technique, pioneered by researchers including Jennifer Doudna at the University of California, Berkeley, and Emmanuelle Charpentier, which enables precise editing of DNA in any living organism. This has "unleashed a whole new era in biotechnology" with potential treatments for inherited diseases and improved crops. Another significant breakthrough is that decades of academic research on messenger RNA (mRNA) technology at institutions such as the University of Pennsylvania culminated during the COVID-19 pandemic. These vaccines were developed in a fraction of the time of traditional methods and are estimated to have saved nearly 20 million lives in their first year of use. The next is the AI technological revolution: Deep Learning and AI Algorithms, developed in academic research labs, particularly at the University of Toronto and MIT.

The university and the research centers were crucial in developing the deep learning algorithms and "transformer architecture" that form the basis of modern Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Large Language Models like ChatGPT. This foundational work has led to the current AI revolution. Again and again, there is also the Human Genome Project: The first working draft and subsequent complete sequencing of the human genome were made publicly available in 2001, primarily due to the work of scientists at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and other global institutions. This has revolutionised biomedical science, accelerating the diagnosis and treatment of genetic diseases. Can the Nigerian university system make a similar breakthrough? Quoting the famous Hausa singer, Alhaji Mamman Shata of blessed memory, "mutane suna kasuwa kara bani dunbin runfuna" – apology to my non-Hausa speaking readers. Human resources, both qualitative and quantitative, are the primary constituents of the university system, followed by adequate teaching and research facilities and willing students who seek to acquire new knowledge.

Nigeria is endowed with high-quality human and natural resources, widely regarded as among the best in the world. Its high population density creates a formidable market for all products and services, and the average Nigerian's intellectual capacity and captivating talent make the population highly resourceful. You will be proud to be Nigerian when you encounter Nigerian talent in Europe, Asia, and America. Ironically, you may also have to hide your face when you meet the few rotten eggs tarnishing the country's image. Some talented Nigerians are endowed with creative capacity and innovative thinking, thereby positively impacting the nation's image at home and abroad. Nigerian-American scientists are making significant impacts, with breakthroughs from Philip Emeagwali in parallel computing, Samuel Achilefu in cancer-detecting goggles, John Dabiri in bio-inspired wind turbines, and Robert Okojie in NASA's high-temperature electronics, plus innovations in batteries, vaccines, and Parkinson's research, showcasing leadership in tech, medicine, and energy.

What of Nigerian-American physicians and surgeons who have made significant breakthroughs in the US? Most notable were Dr. Oluyinka Olutoye in fetal surgery and Dr. Uchechi Iweala in robotic spinal surgery. What of my fellow ABU Zaria alumnus, Dr. Sarki Abba Abdulkadir? A genius who obtained eight A-1 in the nine WASCE subjects he sat for in 1984, which made WAEC officials doubt and brought him to their headquarters in Lagos to retake the same exams, which he did and made nine A-1, improving the one subject he earlier scored A-2 to A-1. He graduated as the top student at ABU Zaria, earned a PhD from Johns Hopkins University, and became a celebrated Nigerian-American medical professor, pathologist, and urologic researcher at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in Chicago, known for his groundbreaking prostate cancer research and record-breaking academic achievements. Most of these high-ranking global personalities, Nigerians by birth, who are creating waves in science, art, humanity, and even politics abroad, have passed through the university system. Yes, even in politics, as of 2019, nine prominent Nigerians were elected as mayors or British members of parliament in the United Kingdom alone. Names such as Chuka Umunna, Helen Grant, Abimbola Afolami, Kate Osamor, and Kemi Badenoch, were featured. Others were Ernest Ezeajughi, Chinyelu Susan Onwurah, and Olugbenga Babatola, among several other Nigerians.

While the light is blinking at the end of the tunnel, ASUU members and other unions must persevere, and the federal and state governments (executive, legislative, and judiciary) should vigorously implement the agreement to reclaim the rightful exalted position of the university system, enabling it to function effectively and make Nigeria great. May God of Heaven and Earth make our lofty dream of a vibrant university system a reality, amen.

THAT SUPREME COURT AND MDAS' POOR RATING

The recent verdict delivered by the Independent Corrupt Practices and Other Related Offences Commission (ICPC) on the Supreme Court of Nigeria and several ministries, departments and agencies (MDAs) is as disturbing as it is embarrassing. It raises troubling questions about the moral authority of institutions that ought to set the highest standards of conduct. When the nation's apex court, expected to be the ultimate custodian of justice, probity and accountability, performs poorly in an ethics and integrity assessment conducted by another public institution, the damage goes far beyond reputational injury. It strikes at the very foundation of public trust in the institution.

As part of its statutory mandate to promote transparency and curb corruption in public institutions, the ICPC developed a structured mechanism to assess ethics, integrity and internal control systems across federal MDAs. This initiative, implemented through the Ethics and Integrity Compliance Scorecard (EICS) and the ACTU Effectiveness Index (AEI), is designed not merely to rank institutions, but to expose systemic weaknesses, encourage reforms and strengthen governance processes. The results of the 2025 assessment, however, paint a bleak picture of the state of public administration in Nigeria.

According to the ICPC's findings, no MDA achieved full compliance with ethical and integrity benchmarks. Out of 344 institutions evaluated, only 48 demonstrated substantial compliance, while 132 recorded partial compliance. More alarming is the fact that 141 MDAs showed poor compliance, 23 were outrightly non-compliant, and 13 failed to respond altogether, earning a high-risk classification. These figures suggest that ethical lapses and weak internal controls are not isolated problems, but widespread features of governance across the federal public service.

The assessment further revealed deep-seated deficiencies in financial accountability. A significant number of MDAs failed to submit financial reports, while many others did not provide audited accounts within the required timeframe. Such lapses undermine transparency, encourage fiscal indiscipline and create fertile ground for abuse of public funds. Equally troubling is the weakness of whistleblowing frameworks.

Perhaps most damning is the failure of MDAs to integrate corruption risk assessments into their decision-making processes. The overwhelming majority did not conduct such assessments at all, while those that did often treated them as mere formalities rather than practical tools for preventing misconduct. This systemic disregard for risk management reflects a governance culture that remains largely reactive, rather than preventive, in its approach to corruption.

Within this grim landscape, the Supreme Court's poor showing is particularly unsettling. As the highest judicial authority in the land, the court is expected to embody the principles of integrity, transparency and accountability that it enforces through its judgments. Its failure to meet basic ethical and integrity standards sends a damaging signal to lower courts, public institutions and citizens alike. If the institution entrusted with interpreting the law falls short of ethical compliance, the moral force of the justice system itself is weakened.

Nonetheless, the assessment was not entirely devoid of positive outcomes. A handful of institutions distinguished themselves through relatively strong performance, demonstrating that ethical governance is achievable within the existing system. The Nigeria Deposit Insurance Corporation emerged as the most effective federal agency in the 2025 ACTU Effectiveness Index, closely followed by Aminu Kano Teaching Hospital and Modibbo Adama University Teaching Hospital. Other agencies, including NITDA, the Federal Judicial Service Commission, JAMB, the Nigerian Railway Corporation and Nigerian Bulk Electricity Trading Plc, also recorded commendable scores.

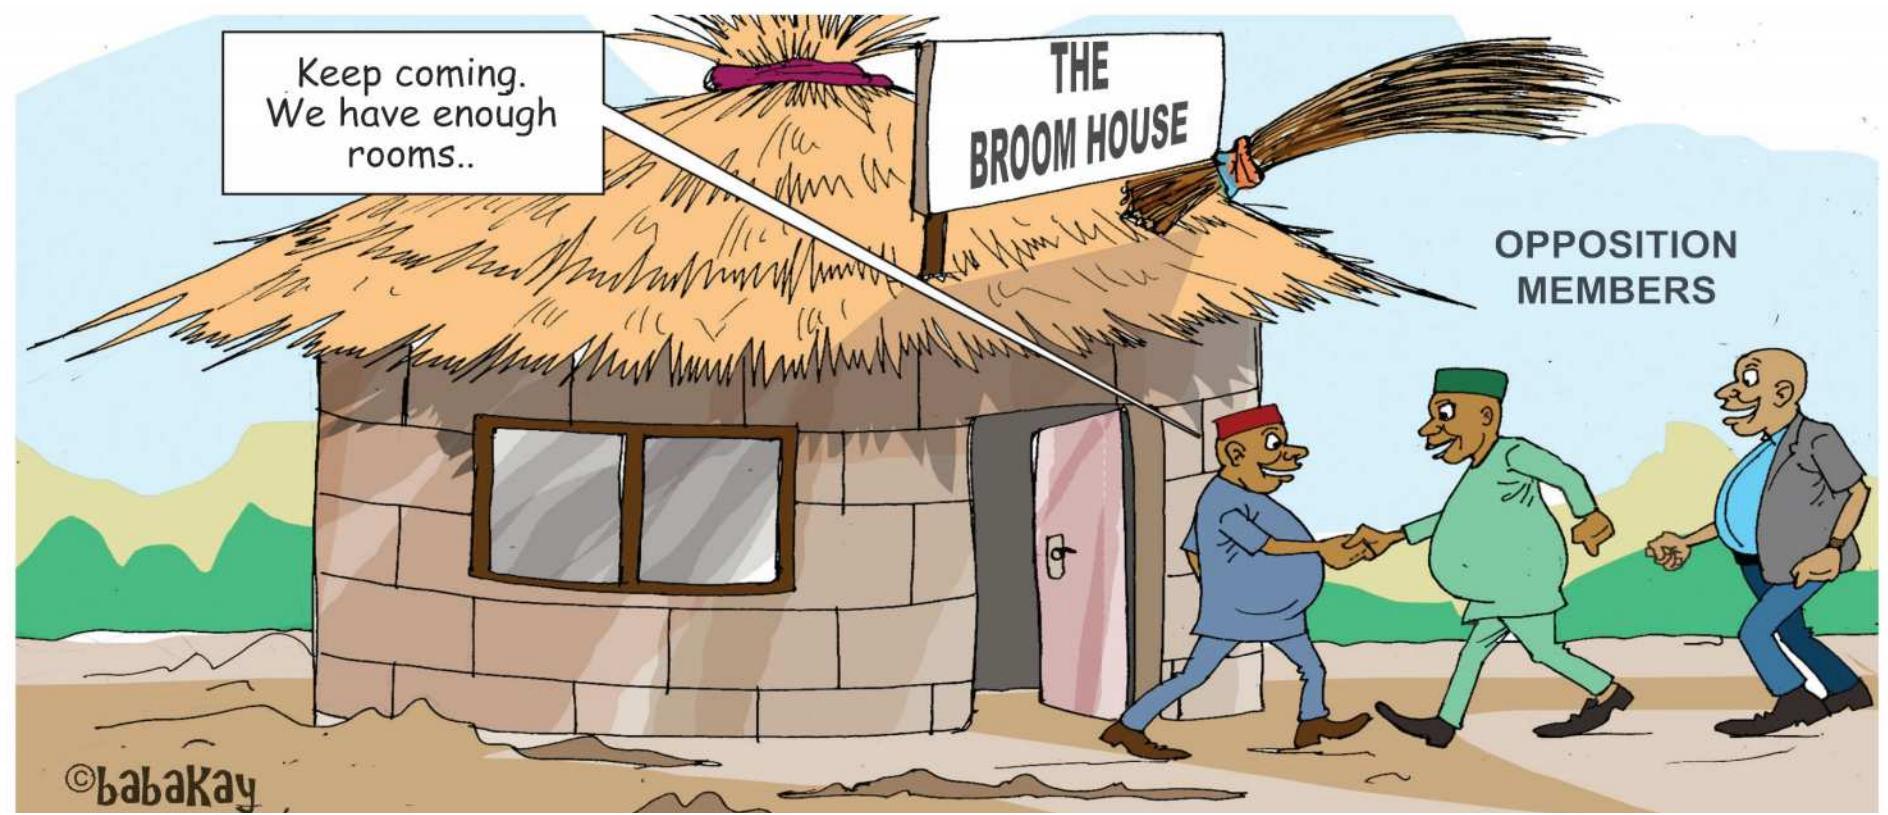

At the other end of the spectrum, several prominent institutions were conspicuously absent or poorly represented in the data, including Galaxy Backbone Limited, major universities, the Federal Road Safety Corps and the Independent National Electoral Commission. The absence or poor performance of such strategic institutions only reinforces concerns about weak institutional opacity.

Commenting on the findings, the ICPC chairman, Musa Aliyu (SAN), rightly observed that the widespread weaknesses in administrative and ethical systems fall well below acceptable public service standards. His assessment underscores the urgency of reform and the need for stronger leadership across MDAs. Without deliberate efforts to strengthen internal controls, enforce accountability and cultivate a culture of integrity, the cycle of weak institutions will persist.

The broader implications of these institutional failures are evident in Nigeria's persistent development challenges. Corruption and opacity continue to drain public resources, undermine investor confidence and widen infrastructure gaps.

In this context, the ICPC deserves commendation for its courage in shining a light on institutional shortcomings and naming even the most powerful culprits. By exposing weaknesses and ranking performance, the commission has provided a valuable diagnostic tool for reform. The real test, however, lies in whether MDAs will respond with genuine corrective action rather than cosmetic compliance.

Ultimately, restoring integrity to public institutions requires more than periodic assessments. It demands sustained political will, ethical leadership and a collective commitment to transparency. Only through such concerted efforts can corruption be reduced, governance strengthened and public confidence rebuilt. The ICPC's report should therefore serve not merely as a scorecard, but as a wake-up call to all institutions entrusted with the stewardship of the Nigerian state.

KATSINA'S EFFECTIVE GRASSROOTS TOOL FOR CURBING INSECURITY, ALLEVIATING POVERTY

There just isn't enough space to exhaust the grassroots empowerment drive of the Radda administration. I have in the last two years been a keen observer of the Radda leadership style. His governance model is significantly grassroots oriented and his consistent community engagement tours and town hall meetings across the villages in the state are obvious hallmarks of a truly community driven government

By Tahir Ibrahim Tahir

In November 2024, the Katsina state government launched the Community Development Programme (CDP), an initiative designed to empower the grassroots by collaboration and partnership with community leaders, stakeholders, traditional rulers and indigenes. To drive the CDP, 361 community development centres were launched across the state with one centre in each ward of the 34 local government areas of the state. The centres were created with three different layers: community development, community support, and community learning which were all designed to address infrastructure deficits, enhance social services, promote learning, and provide economic empowerment. The CDP was designed to operate with the simple notion of community driven development, where government policies and programmes will be shaped by priorities itemised by each community, as opposed to a blanket approach that is not only wasteful, but doesn't resolve the core problems situated in unique communities' needs. Governor Dikko Radda had already kick-started the autonomisation of the local government areas long before the Supreme Court judgement on LG autonomy.

Just about a year after launching the CDP model, the Katsina state governor embarked on a state wide tour of all 34 local govt areas of the state. This was to assess, engage, and flag off key projects in each LGA. This tour, in consonance with the mood of the CDP, aims to ensure that each community felt directly the impact of govt investments and development programmes. The essence of the tour was to meet community leaders, traditional rulers as well as residents and hear directly from them so as to understand their priority needs, and then gather inputs from the grassroots for better planning and implementation of government projects across the state. At Danja LG, the governor highlighted the completion of the Danja Earth Dam, the planned hydro power project, the ongoing renovation of schools and health facilities, and several other road projects. At Malumfashi, the governor flagged off the empowerment of 1,859 community residents. The programme included the provision of six cars, 21 motorcycles, 122 sewing machines, 200 flour mills, and food support for 200 women. Others are: 200 POS machines loaded with N100,000 each as start-up funds, 200 NBAIS forms, and 14 cows for 140 butchers. It also included N20,000 grants to 600 small business owners, N30,000 for 1,000 beneficiaries and 20 wheelchairs. All these were fully funded with LG funds by the LG chairman.

At Dafur, the chairman funded the provision of 600 bags of cement, 25 motorcycles, 50 sewing machines, four cars, 100 grinding machines and an additional N20 million as community support. The governor then flagged off the N18.5 billion Sabuwa-Tashar Bawa-Rafin Iwa road project which is a 27.6 kms asphalt concrete road, a major milestone in the administration's drive to open up rural communities for better statewide connectivity. At the event, the governor explained that the entire corridor is home to hardworking farmers and the road would enhance agricultural value chains, ease the movement of farm produce and reduce transportation challenges especially during the rainy season. At Sabuwa, about 1500 women received grants in a drive to strengthen micro and small scale businesses. The programme saw to the distribution of 10,000 books, 1,000 school uniforms, and 40 bicycles for pupils from vulnerable households who walk long distances from school. 300 students were also sponsored for JAMB with a component six weeks intensive training to improve their admission chances. Other empowerment items include 80 grinding machines, 10 maize-shelling machines, and 50 sewing machines, aimed at promoting micro-enterprises and improving revenue generation. While at Sabuwa, the governor flagged off the foundation laying of one of the four newly approved girl's secondary schools in Sabuwa.

At Dandume, another massive empowerment programme covering 11 wards of the community, focusing on vulnerable youths and women was also flagged off. Six cars to enhance governance and engagement, and 62 motorcycles to APC LG Exco, ward chairmen, ward governorship coordinators, village heads, and campaign coordinators, were distributed. 105 solar streetlights were also installed across the 11 wards to improve security. The programme also had skills acquisition materials including 110 sewing machines, 110 grinding machines, 110 Engine Taliya units, 110 bags of Evane Mai Buje, 130 bags of 25kg food items, 110 bags of soya beans, 110 additional food bags and 110 units of cooking oil. Also, 100 youths received N100,000 each with more funds as assistance to APC leaders across the LG.

At Funtua, the governor stressed that the empowerment phase so far has demonstrated his government's commitment to ensure that every community benefits so that livelihoods can be improved for a better future. Here, 360 less privileged men and women received the support of N20,000 each. Other items distributed included 55 grinding machines, 55 pumping irrigation machines, 16 robaroba units and 22 boxer motorcycles, 15 sewing machines and three motor vehicles. Alongside the tour was a massive empowerment programme by the Senior Special Assistant to Mr. President on Political Matters, Alh. Kabiru Masari, with a capital donation of N300,000 to 1,000 beneficiaries at Malumfashi. At Musawa, there was N100,000 for 175 youths, 100 tea and bread vendors with N50,000 each, 100 Okada operators with N50,000 each, and 100 women with small and micro businesses such as bean-cake, doughnuts, and other snacks receiving N50,000 each. 100 barbers got N50,000 each 100, and butchers also got N50,000 each. More items included 50 motorcycles, motor cars, 110 grinding machines, 110 pepper-grinding machines, irrigation and farming tools, 222 bags of Urea fertiliser, 177 bags of WACOT fertiliser, and 57 water pumping machines. At Daura, the governor inaugurated the 13.5 km western bypass with an 11.3km link road connecting Dunu village, to Ganga and continuing to Dimurkol village. The speaker was also commended by the governor for providing scholarship for over 600 students who are indigenes of Daura.

There just isn't enough space to exhaust the grassroots empowerment drive of the Radda administration. I have in the last two years been a keen observer of the Radda leadership style. His governance model is significantly grassroots oriented and his consistent community engagement tours and town hall meetings across the villages in the state are obvious hallmarks of a truly community driven government. Projects are strategically placed in areas with specific needs and resources in the form of empowerment funds and business materials or machines are thrust in the hands of the locals; so that they can collectively revive their local economies. This will in no time erode the terrorism which thrives in poverty laden communities where residents are left with little options. The CDP is a very good model that can be replicated in other states just the way Katsina's Community Watch Corps is now being replicated in Kano, Niger and Zamfara states. Even the FG's Forest Guards is not far from the design and operations of the Katsina Community Watch Corps. Katsina in the last two years has been churning out fine blueprints for community development and I believe a leaf or two from the brainy Dr. Radda won't be a bad idea across the North. In fact, the transparency routine of his programmes if adopted by the federal government can make a world of difference to the lower class of the Nigerian populace in general.

The federal government Tuesday said it harbours no plans to unlawfully arrest, detain or prosecute opposition figures.

A statement signed by the Minister of Information and National Orientation, Alhaji Mohammed Idris, noted that the clarification is in response to a fabricated document in circulation, alleging the establishment of a non-existent multi-agency task

Kano NNPP chair sacked over stance on Gov Yusuf's planned defection

By Abdulkummin Giwa
Kano

The executive members of the New Nigeria People's Party (NNPP) in Gargari Ward, Dawakin Tofa local government area of Kano state have expelled the state party chairman, Hashim Dungurawa.

A total of 27 executive members signed the resolution endorsing the decision, which was reached during the ward's second executive meeting held two weeks after the general election, under the leadership of the ward chairman, Shuaibu Hassan, flanked by his secretary, Yahaya Saidu Dungurawa.

According to the resolution, Dungurawa was removed over allegations of creating divisions within the party, instigating internal crises, failure to pay party dues, and making abusive remarks against the Governor of Kano state, Abba Kabir Yusuf.

It would be recalled that Dungurawa had dismissed Governor Yusuf's planned defection to the ruling All Progressives Congress (APC), as a betrayal of the Kwankwaso Movement leader, Rabiu Musa Kwankwaso.

The ward executives described the alleged conduct as unacceptable and detrimental to the image, unity, and progress of the NNPP.

They said the action was taken in strict compliance with the party's constitution, stressing the need to uphold discipline, unity, and internal cohesion within the party.

The ward leadership disclosed that copies of the resolution have been forwarded to the party's Local Government, State, and National headquarters for necessary action.

The resolution was also served on the national leader of the party, Senator Rabiu Musa Kwankwaso, and the governor of Kano state, Alhaji Abba Kabir Yusuf, for their information and further directives.

They further reaffirmed their total loyalty to the NNPP national leadership under Senator Kwankwaso and pledged continued support to the Kano State Governor, Alhaji Abba Kabir Yusuf.

force for a purported programme tagged "ADP4VIP" (Arrest, Detain, Prosecute for Very Important Persons).

According to the minister, the baseless document falsely claims that a task force comprising the Economic and Financial Crimes Commission (EFCC), the Independent Corrupt Practices and Other Related Offences Commission (ICPC), and the Nigerian Financial Intelligence Unit (NFIU), coordinated by the Office of the National Security Adviser, aims to aggressively target prominent opposition figures without due process.

Idris said the authors of this deliberate disinformation imprudently cite "multiple credible sources" to allege a planned "systematic weakening and neutralisation of opposition political activity," particularly within the African Democratic Congress (ADC).

"The Federal Government wishes to state emphatically: There is no such programme as 'ADP4VIP'."

"The administration of President Bola Ahmed Tinubu is firmly and successfully focused on its core agenda; implementing measurable economic reforms, defeating insecurity, expanding trade opportunities, and restoring investor confidence," he said.

Idris added that the attempt by some opposition elements to frame lawful accountability as "political targeting is a dangerous red herring designed to shield so-called VIPs from answering to our national laws and anti-corruption agencies".

He reaffirmed the commitment of the current administration to rule of law, independence of government institutions and the constitution.

He said, "The Government underscores its foundational principles. Section 40 of the 1999 Constitution (as amended) guarantees every Nigerian the right to freely associate and assemble.

"We urge all Nigerians to remain vigilant and to reject the politics of distortion and division," he stated.

2027: Nasarawa North leaders want gov'ship seat retained

By Mohammed Yangida
Lafia

Political leaders on the aegis of Nasarawa North Political Consultative Forum (NNPCF) have demanded that the zone be given the opportunity to produce the next governor of the state after Governor Abdullahi Sule's second term in office.

This was disclosed in a communiqué signed by the convener, Sen. John M. Danboiyi and c-convener, Salihu Ahmad Alizaga on behalf of the Forum and made available to newsmen on Tuesday, in Lafia.

Blueprint gathered that Governor Sule, who is currently concluding his second term in office, hails from Akwanga local government area of the state in the Nasarawa North senatorial district.

"The Forum (NNPCF) met at Akwanga on Monday, 29th December, 2025, and deliberated on matters of common interest for the progress of the people of the zone in the coming political dispensation in Nasarawa state.

"After exhaustive discussion and extensive exchange of views on the agenda of the meeting, the leaders of the zone unanimously issued the following communiqué and resolved that the 2027 governorship position be zoned to the Nasarawa North Senatorial District in the interest of equity, fairness, and justice," the communiqué stated.

They added that the position is premised on the fact that Nasarawa North was the last to be considered in the political cycle spanning from 1999 to 2027.

The Niger Delta Development Commission (NDDC) Tuesday presented to the Senate N1.75 trillion budget proposal for 2025 fiscal year.

This is as the Senate through its Committee on NDDC seeks to carry out physical assessment of project execution from 2021 to 2024.

The proposed budget size as explained by the Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the Commission, Samuel Ogbuku, to members of the committee is 9% lower than N1.985 trillion proposed and appropriated for the 2024 fiscal year.

According to Ogbuku, the proposed N1.750 trillion 2025 budget, consists of N776.5 billion as contribution from federal government, N752.8 billion as contribution from oil companies, N109.4 billion as revenue brought forward from 2024, N53.67 billion as recoveries from federal government agencies and N8.35 billion as internally generated revenue.

He added that out of the estimated N1.75trillion budget for the 2025 fiscal year, N1.631trillion is earmarked for projects execution across the Niger Delta Region , N22.3billion for internal projects execution , N47.56billion for

NUPRC boss Eyesan's appointment timely for nation's energy sector – N/Delta youth

By Agi Onda
Abuja

The appointment of Oritseymewa Amanorisewo Eyesan as the Chief Executive Officer of the Nigerian Upstream Petroleum Regulatory Commission (NUPRC), has been lauded by the Niger Delta Youth Coalition (NDYC) as deserving and timely for Nigeria's energy sector.

In a statement issued in Abuja, the coalition—an umbrella body representing youth groups and host communities across the nine oil- and gas-producing states of the Niger Delta—said the appointment by President Bola Ahmed Tinubu underscores the administration's commitment to professionalism and reform in the petroleum industry.

According to the group, the new NUPRC chief executive brings to office proven leadership capacity, technical expertise and extensive experience in the energy sector—qualities it believes will strengthen regulatory transparency, innovation and efficiency in Nigeria's upstream operations.

The coalition noted that effective regulation of the sector is critical to economic growth, national development and shared prosperity, particularly for host communities that have borne the brunt of decades of oil and gas exploration.

"We are confident that his leadership will shape forward-looking policies, programmes and regulatory frameworks that will reposition the sector in line with the Renewed Hope Agenda of the present administration," the statement said.

The statement was signed by coordinators from the nine Niger Delta states—Odih Rowland (Edo), Comrade Prince Onengiye Amachree (Rivers), Opuama Joseph (Delta), Douglas Timothy (Cross River), Samuel A. (Ondo), Tonye Ebetimi (Bayelsa), Ugo Kingsley (Imo), Bassey Williams (Akwa Ibom) and Ikechukwu Samuel (Abia)—on behalf of the coalition. It concluded with best wishes for a "successful, impactful and legacy-defining tenure" for the new NUPRC chief executive.

Firework kills 2 in Anambra community

By Okechukwu Onuegbu
Awka

At least two persons have been reportedly killed with others sustaining degrees of injuries at Umuchi, Aguata local government area of Anambra state due to an explosion from fireworks.

Blueprint gathered that the incident occurred on December 29 when some villagers lit a high-intensity firework, popularly known as a "knockout" near the main stage of a social event sparking panic among dwellers.

"The knockout exploded like a bomb, making people scamper for safety. Some closest to the stage collapsed immediately because the sound was deafening, and chaos erupted everywhere as people screamed for help. One of the victims called Ugochi died on the spot, while another lady rushed to a nearby hospital and died from the injuries sustained," an eyewitness alleged.

Some viral video clip circulating on social media also showed thick smoke and crowds of people fleeing the venue of the event disorganized by knockout as injured persons were seen being rushed away for medical attention.

A supposedly family member of one Miss Ugochi that died because of the incident was heard in a voice note recalling how her sister returned to Umuchi for the Christmas holidays and was dancing at the carnival when the explosion occurred.

Although Anambra state Police command was yet to comment on the incident, the Police Commissioner, Ikiye Orutu, earlier prohibited the use of knockout bangers and other social explosives during the yuletide.

Niger Delta youth coalition hails NMDPRA boss

NCPC airlifts first batch of pilgrims with highest-seating capacity aircraft aircraft operated in Nigeria for the airlift of Christian pilgrims to the holy land.

In his remarks at the event, the Executive Secretary of the NCPC, Bishop Prof Stephen Adegbite, described the event as ground breaking, "considering that the Commission was able to make available for the first time in the history of our pilgrimage the highest seating capacity aircraft operated in Nigeria".

A press statement issued by the deputy director and head, Media and Public Relations of the NCPC, Celestine Toruka, Tuesday, said Bishop Adegbite emphasised that the aircraft which is a Boeing 777-300 has a capacity of about 525, the biggest aircraft which allows more mass movement of pilgrims to be airlifted and completed a short period of time.

The NCPC executive secretary said this fear would not have been possible without the support of Mr President, the members of the Board of the Commission and the air carrier.

He thanked President Bola Tinubu for his support for pilgrimages, stating that "without his avowed support, the Commission would not have been able to conduct the 2024 main pilgrimage exercise, the 2025 Easter pilgrimage exercise and of course the 2025 main pilgrimage exercise."

He also commended the First Lady of Nigeria, Senator Oluremi Tinubu, the Vice President, Senator Kasim Shettima as well as the Secretary to the Government of the Federation, Senator George Akume, for their efforts in advancing the cause of Christian pilgrimage in Nigeria.

Similarly, Bishop Adegbite appreciated the governor of Bauchi state, Senator Bala Muhammed, for his support and consistency in the sponsorship of Christian pilgrims in Bauchi, describing him as "one of the best Christian pilgrimage-friendly governors in the Northeast."

Bishop Adegbite assured the intending pilgrims that every arrangement has been made for a successful Pilgrimage operation and they should conduct themselves in a most decent and excellent manner. He also urged them to be good ambassadors of Christ and Nigeria while in the holy land.

FCTA targets scrap markets amid solar streetlight thefts

By Abdullahi Muhammad
Abuja

The scrap market in the Federal Capital Territory (FCVT) suspected of being conduits for stolen goods, are experiencing tighter surveillance, as the FCT Administration ramps up enforcement across various scrap markets also called pantaker in the territory.

The move comes after reports of repeated vandalism of newly installed solar streetlights and a surge in theft of critical infrastructure, including manhole covers.

The crackdown is being carried out by the Operation Sweep Joint Task Force, set up by the FCT Minister, Nyesom Wike, to tackle security and public asset theft.

Speaking to reporters after a visit to the International Scrap Market Apo, and Jabi Pantaker Market on Tuesday, the Director Security Services, FCTA, Adamu Gwary, said the enforcement was intended to strengthen monitoring of pantaker markets, which are often used as outlets for stolen items.

Gwary, who was represented by the Secretary, Command and Control, Dr. Peter Olumujji, said the enforcement was designed to showcase the achievements of the task force.

He said, "The reason we went out today with the media is to showcase the work of Operation Sweep, particularly the Joint Task Force established by the Hon Minister of the Federal Capital Territory. This team has been working around

Borno: Troops arrest suspected suicide bomber, intercept IED materials

By Sadiq Abubakar

fairer footing.

"The new tax laws will commence on January 1, 2026 as planned," the president said, stressing that the reform agenda has now moved beyond debate and is firmly in the delivery phase.

President Tinubu described the tax reforms as a "once-in-a-generation opportunity" to build a fair, competitive and robust fiscal foundation for the country.

He explained that the laws were not introduced to increase the tax burden on Nigerians, but to reset the system, harmonise existing tax structures and strengthen trust between citizens and the state.

"The tax laws are not designed to raise taxes, but rather to support a structural reset, drive harmonisation, and protect dignity while strengthening the social contract," he said.

President Tinubu urged all stakeholders, including businesses, professionals, lawmakers and sub-national governments, to support the implementation process in the national interest.

"I urge all stakeholders to support the implementation phase, which is now firmly in the delivery stage," he said.

President Tinubu also addressed public discussions and concerns surrounding the new tax laws, including claims that some provisions may be reviewed or altered.

He said his administration was aware of the ongoing public discourse but made it clear that no serious issue had been identified that would justify halting or disrupting the reform process.

All set for January 1 take-off of new tax laws, implementation irreversible – Tinubu

"Our administration is aware of the public discourse surrounding alleged changes to some provisions of the recently enacted tax laws.

"No substantial issue has been established that warrants a disruption of the reform process," he said.

He cautioned against what he described as premature and reactive decisions, noting that public confidence in governance is built through consistency and responsible choices over time.

"Absolute trust is built over time through making the right decisions, not through premature, reactive measures," he said.

The president reaffirmed his administration's commitment to due process and respect for the rule of law, stressing that the integrity of laws already enacted must be preserved.

"I emphasise our administration's commitment to due process and the integrity of enacted laws," he said.

He assured Nigerians that the Presidency would work closely with the National Assembly to address any genuine concerns that may arise in the course of implementation.

"The Presidency pledges to work with the National Assembly to ensure the swift resolution of any issue identified," Tinubu said.

President Tinubu assured Nigerians that the federal government would continue to act in the overall public interest, with the goal of building a tax system that supports economic growth, shared responsibility and national prosperity.

"I assure all Nigerians that the Federal Government will continue to act in the overriding public interest to ensure a tax system that supports prosperity and shared responsibility," he said.

The new tax laws are part of the Tinubu administration's economic reform programme aimed at simplifying tax administration, improving compliance, reducing duplication and creating a more predictable environment for businesses and investors.

With the January 1, 2026 commencement date reaffirmed, President Tinubu said attention is now focused on smooth implementation and cooperation across all levels of government.

The three defendants were said to have in February 2018, acquired No.3 Rhine Street, Maitama, Abuja, under Section 18(3) of the same Act."

Malami and his son were in count two alleged to have procured the same METROPOLITAN AUTO TECH LIMITED to conceal the unlawful origin of another sum of over N600 million.

They were alleged to have, in November 2022, used Rahamaniyya Properties Limited to conceal N500 million paid for a luxury duplex at Amazon Street, Maitama, Abuja.

And in count five, they were alleged to have sometime in September 2024, conspired to disguise the unlawful for N430 million and in the same month concealed N210 million for No. 3130, Cadastral Zone A04, Asokoro, Abuja.

They were also charged with concealing N325 million for No. 1241B, Asokoro District, between March and June 2021, and N120 million for No. 27 Efab Estate, Gwarimpa, Abuja, between November 2015 and January 2016.

Following his not guilty plea, Malami's lead counsel, Joseph Bodunde Daudu, SAN, had argued oral bail application on various grounds despite the pendency of the written one that was served on EFCC.

Among others, he said that Malami is a former Minister of Justice and Senior Advocate of Nigeria and would not jump bail.

Daudu also argued that the charges were bailable ones and not capital offences, adding that Malami would not tamper with witnesses if admitted to bail.

Daudu also argued that the law presumes Malami innocent until proven guilty before the court.

CELEBRATING THE PEOPLE'S GOVERNOR

55 @55

On behalf of the good people of Kajuru Local Government Area, I warmly congratulate His Excellency, Senator Uba Sani, the Executive Governor of Kaduna State, on the joyous occasion of his 55th birthday.

This milestone is not only a celebration of years but a tribute to a life devoted to service, sacrifice, and purposeful leadership. Since assuming office, Your Excellency has demonstrated uncommon commitment to people-centred governance, with visible strides in infrastructural development across Kaduna State—from road rehabilitation and urban renewal to investments in education, healthcare facilities, and rural connectivity that are already improving livelihoods.

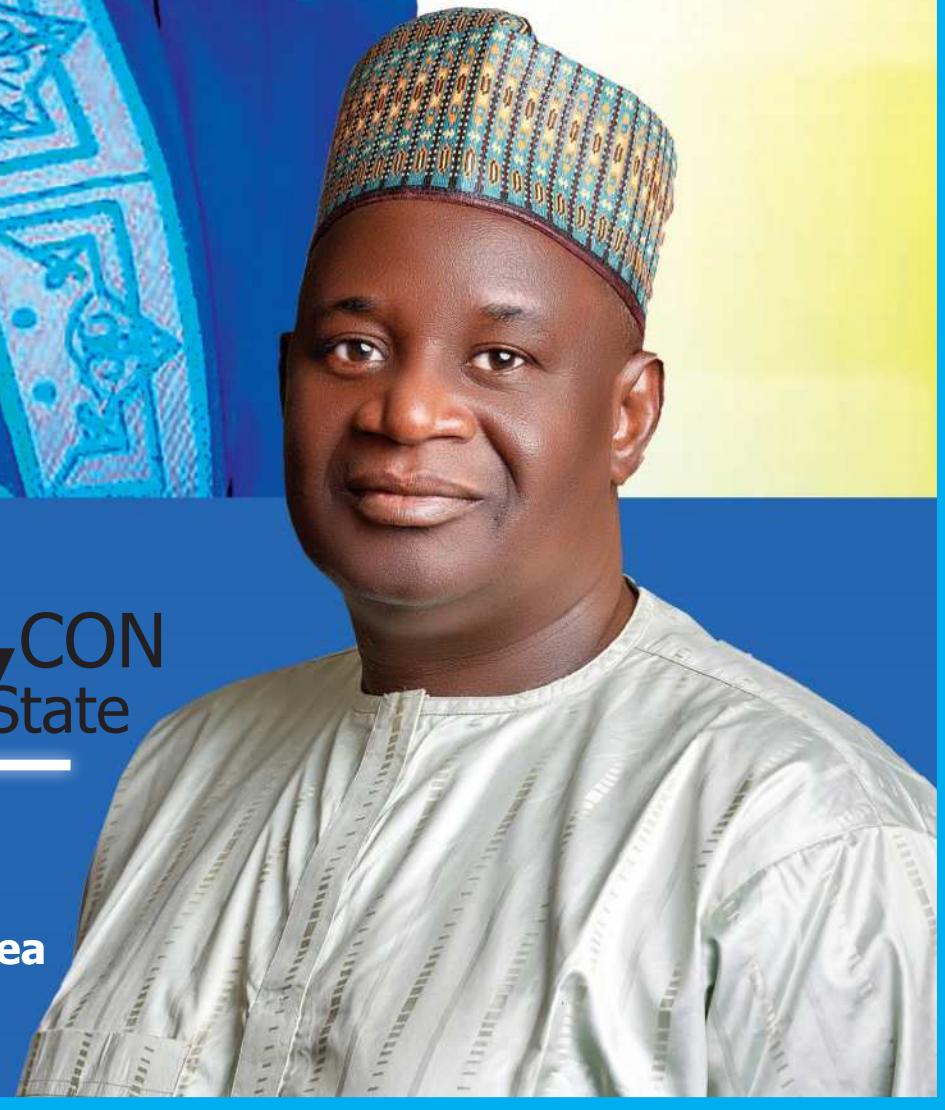

In Kajuru, we acknowledge and appreciate the renewed focus on opening up communities through better road networks, strengthening basic services, and creating an enabling environment for peace, development, and economic activity. Your administration's emphasis on inclusion, security, and sustainable infrastructure continues to inspire confidence and hope among our people.

As you mark this special day, we pray for continued good health, wisdom, and strength to lead Kaduna State to even greater heights. May the years ahead bring deeper fulfillment, enduring peace, and lasting legacies of development.

Happy 55th Birthday, Your Excellency.

Excellency,

Maikalangu unveils digital platform for payment of AMAC revenues

By Paul Okah
Abuja

Chairman of Abuja Municipal Area Council (AMAC), Hon. Christopher Zakka Maikalangu, has announced the full automation of the council's revenue system, outrightly banning cash payments and unauthorised collections.

Speaking at a press conference on Tuesday in Abuja, Maikalangu said the policy is a decisive move to block revenue leakages, entrench transparency, and boost service delivery across the council.

He said: "From January to date, the council has made a revenue of over N5 billion. As I speak to you, people are still paying their money. But looking at the council, you should know that we ought to have something better than this. AMAC cuts across the Airport, Dei Dei, Gwarampa, Maitama, Asokoro, down to Nyanya. That is AMAC for you."

"With all these new buildings you are seeing everywhere, they are paying revenue to AMAC, but the money is not there. Those who have been caught before, we have been taking some of them to prison."

"How is the automation going to work out? It is very simple. You see, it has been done before. I did it here. I said people should stop giving out money to individuals. They should pay into the AMAC account directly. Now look at what they did. You know, whatever you do, a criminal is wiser than you. Now, they developed another method of using the same AMAC to get money. A taxpayer outside, he wants to see an AMAC account."

"Now, so many of them will just come over and they will present to you a fake AMAC account. And we have discovered that it is not AMAC account. What we intend doing now, we are using Smart Tax. Anywhere you Google Smart Tax, whether you download the app or using Chrome, just go to <https://smarttax.ng/> payment. Follow it. You will get to where you make your payment. And you select items."

2026 Taraba's year of consolidation, conclusions of lofty plans – Gov Kefas

By Andrew Ojih
Jalingo

Taraba state governor, Dr Agbu Kefas, Tuesday, said that 2026 would be a year of consolidation and conclusions of many lofty plans for Tarabans.

Kefas in a statement signed by his Special Adviser on Media and Digital Communications, Hon Emmanuel Bello, and made available to journalists in Jalingo, hinted that 2026 will be a very busy year.

"The year 2026 promises to be a very busy year. Politicking will kick into overdrive, and the power permutations will hit the super highway."

"But for Taraba state governor, Dr. Agbu Kefas, it promises to be a year of consolidation and conclusions on many of his lofty plans and ideas.

"2026 will be business unusual. Gov Kefas came into this job with an unquenchable zeal to transform Taraba from a rural state to one that is reckoned with globally. He hasn't lost a step in that direction," the statement said.

The statement added that in the last two years the state governor resisted the temptations for superficial developments for cheap applause.

"Rather, he focused on the silently arduous but needed internal surgery the state needed from chaos to a concrete masterplan."

"The governor took his time to dig a solid foundation that would outlive his administration. What critics saw as a slow pace in major physical development was actually the deliberate redesigning of structures and putting the pillars in place for a robust takeoff.

"Next year will be the year of gains and harvest, citizens will feel the heavy impact of meticulous planning, deft investment, and strategic thinking. It is the year of work and more work," the statement added.

Governor Kefas said, in spite of the teething problems of the last two years since he declared free education in the state, "the policy has subsisted and survived. Primary and secondary school education have remained free and compulsory."

"University students pay only half of their tuition fees while the government paid the rest. In 2026, the free education policy will benefit fully from the creation of additional ministries of Tertiary education and one of pre primary and secondary school. Indeed, 2026 will see the fine tuning and better appreciation of the great efforts of the governor to make Taraba an education hub in the North and the country."

Buni signs N515bn Yobe 2026 budget into law

By Yusuf A. Yusuf
Damaturu

Governor Mai Mala Buni of Yobe on Tuesday signed the state's 2026 Appropriation Bill of N515 billion into law, setting the financial and developmental agenda for the coming fiscal year.

The signing ceremony, held at the Government House, Damaturu, provides the legal framework for the state's expenditures and enables the funding of government policies, programmes, and capital projects across key sectors.

During the event, Governor Buni administered the oath of office to Alhaji Adam Jibrin as the new chairman of Yusufari local government area.

Jibrin's appointment followed the passing of the former chairman, Alhaji Baba Abba Aji, who died on Sunday after a prolonged illness in Cairo, Egypt.

In his remarks, Governor Buni described the 2026 budget as a strategic tool for consolidating the state's developmental gains and accelerating sustainable growth.

"The signing of this budget underscores our commitment to responsible governance and transformative service delivery," the governor stated.

He disclosed that the initial budget proposal of N550.583 billion was revised to N512.532 billion following legislative scrutiny and adjustments. The final allocation designates N291.903 billion (62%) for capital expenditure and N223.628 billion (38%) for recurrent services.

Wike a dependable leader and ally, say Rivers monarch Awuse

By Abdullahi Muhammad
Abuja

The paramount ruler of Emohua Kingdom in Rivers, Eze Ohna Sergeant Chidi Awuse, has described the Minister of the Federal Capital Territory Administration (FCTA), Barr Nyesom Wike, as a dependable ally and a leader to be followed.

Awuse, who is also the chairman, South South Monarchs Forum, stated this during Wike's special Christmas visit to Rumuche Emohua in Emohua local government area of Rivers.

"I want to put it on record. You're a man to be followed; you're a dependable ally; a friend to Omohua people and our leader."

"Your Excellency, Emohua owes you everything and we are not going to wait for you to tell us what to do when the time comes."

traditional ruler I was an accountant first and then I became a politician. From my accounting and finance understanding, Tinubu has done very well.

"The indices are so clear. The value of the Naira has gone up. He has done well."

"The external reserves of the nation has also increased to more than 47 billion dollars."

The traditional leader added that through Tinubu, Wike has transformed Abuja and advised the minister not to be distracted by the gimmicks of the enemy saying, "In life, if you expect not to have enemies then you're a master of nobody. Only a man who is doing well is spoken about."

He commended the minister for the annual visit at the end of every year to acknowledge the support of the people.

Fubara redeploys sports commissioner to justice ministry

By Dennis Essang
Port Harcourt

The Rivers state governor, Sir Siminalayi Fubara, has approved a minor cabinet reshuffle in the State Executive Council, redeploying Barr Christopher Green from the Ministry of Sports to the Ministry of Justice.

This is contained in a statement issued by the Permanent Secretary Ministry of Information and Communications, Dr. Honour Sirawoo, Tuesday.

The statement said Barr Green will however continue to coordinate the activities of the sports ministry pending the appointment of a substantive commissioner to oversee the ministry.

The redeployment, which takes immediate effect, was approved at the last SEC meeting for year 2025, underscoring the governor's commitment to strengthening governance, ensuring continuity in service delivery, and optimising the performance of key ministries within the state.

Kalu announces plan to boost Abia SMEs with N1bn

By Joshua Egbodo
Abuja

Deputy Speaker of the House of Representatives, Hon. Benjamin Kalu, has announced plans to stimulate economic development in Abia state through a one billion naira support package for 2,000 Small and Medium-Scale Enterprises (SMEs).

Speaking during a town hall meeting of the Renewed Hope Partners (RHP) in Bende local government area of the state on Monday, where he distributed trailer loads of rice, other food items and cash to over 100 churches, the All Progressives Congress (APC), and various support groups, Kalu said the initiative was part of the Renewed Hope Partners programme to empower residents across the 17 Local Government Areas of Abia State.

Kalu had in a few months, through the Renewed Hope Partners, also donated N500 million to support Abia residents in their businesses.

"A few months ago, about six months ago, we gave about N500 million to the programme. We have been distributing from time to time. Today again, to support the party and the structures, we are giving N100 million," he said after which he directed the DG of the Benjamin Kalu Movement and his team to help identify 2,000 small-scale businesses.

"We want you to raise 2,000 businesses between now and February. Sometime in February, we are going to gather again for empowerment. Today is not for empowerment. Today is to share food and eat rice together. We will do empowerment in the first quarter of this coming year. And between now and that time, we will do empowerment, we want you to collect 2,000 names of small and medium-scale enterprises.

"We are going to support them with N1 billion for 2,000 businesses that will cut across the entire Abia State, all the local government areas in Abia State," he said, urging potential beneficiaries to pick up resignation forms from the Renewed Hope Office in Ojike Lane, Umuahia," he assured.

PDP urges Kogi SIEC to extend LG poll timetable, assures of victory

By Oyibo Salihu
Lokoja

Ahead of the 2026 local government elections in Kogi state, the Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) has called on the State Independent Electoral Commission (SIEC) to extend the election timetable to enable it participate in the election.

Kogi state chairman of PDP, Muhammed Sanni Gambo, made the call on Tuesday, while addressing journalists shortly after a crucial stakeholders' meeting at the party's secretariat in Lokoja.

According to him, the current schedule of the forthcoming council elections as released by SIEC could effectively shut out the opposition parties willing to participate in the elections.

He appealed for an extension of the timetable, particularly the window for the sale and submission of nomination forms, explaining that he recently assumed office through a court order and inherited a process already at the verge of closure.

"It is in the interest of fairness, justice and democracy for the State Independent Electoral Commission to extend the timetable. There must be an extension to enable our party participate fully. We are confident of victory at the poll," he added.

He lamented that insecurity has become a major national challenge with direct consequences for Kogi state, stressing that the protection of lives and property must remain a top priority for government at all levels.

"Our people must be able to sleep with their two eyes closed and carry out their legitimate businesses without fear of being attacked or kidnapped," he said.

Phone snatching, thuggery becoming history in Kano - CP

By Abdulkummin Giwa
Kano

The Kano state Commissioner of Police, Ibrahim Adamu Bakori, has declared the menace of thuggery, phone snatching and herders-farmers' crises have become history in the state following his Operation Kukan Kura.

He stated this while briefing newsmen on Tuesday at the Kano state command on the achievements recorded in the last one year as the year.

As the 47th police commissioner of Kano stated that, from the 1st of January 2025 to date, the command has arrested 3,081 crime suspects across the 78 Police Divisions, and 11 Area Commands among other operations involving the command's Department of Operations, Investigation and Intelligence.

The CP further stated that recoveries that include firearms, dangerous weapons, illicit drugs, stolen properties and other exhibits were made.

Some of these include among various others listed, 50 kidnapping suspects, 112 drug dealers, 2,350 thugs, 154 suspected thieves and 83 suspected motorcycle thieves.

Others include 52 tricycles, 99 motorcycles, 145 mobile phones, 20 POS machines and 37 ATM cards.

Some of the recoveries made include nine AK47 rifles, 13 English pistols, 8 revolver pistols, three pump action rifles, 37 locally made revolver rifles, 26 locally fabricated guns and 198 rounds of live ammunition.

"Today, the issue of thuggery and mobile phone robbery is becoming history with the successful implementation of Operation Kukan Kura.

"Farmers and herders clashes have been summoned, by means of community-centric approach and the threat of infiltration of bandits to the state through some border local government areas have been collectively and squarely faced with all seriousness," he stated.

Zamfara APC begins e-registration of members

By Sanusi Muhammad
Gusau

The All Progressive Congress (APC) in Zamfara state has commenced the electronic registration of its members across the 14 local government areas of the state.

The state publicity secretary of the party Yusuf Idris, also the state coordinator of the e-registration stated this at a press conference in Gusau, Tuesday.

According to him, the exercise was a nationwide Blueprint initiated by the national headquarters of the party in order to revalidate its members across the country.

He further hinted that 294 agents have been assigned to oversee the exercise in the state.

Yusuf further stated that the exercise will be at local government, ward and polling unit levels across the state.

He said three administrations were assigned to oversee the three senatorial zones for the exercise in the state.

He charged members of the party to participate fully for the exercise in order to have accurate data of the party members in the state.

According to him, the party in the state has provided all the necessary requirements for the successful conduct of the exercise.

Ogun emerges tops in women scale up projects

By Hakeem Adegbeno
Abeokuta

Ogun state has emerged as a leading implementing state under the Nigeria for Women Project Scale-Up (NFWP-SU), having successfully achieved the formation of a total of 2,000 Women Affinity Groups (WAGs) within just six weeks of full project implementation.

The milestone was disclosed in a statement signed by the state project coordinator, Bolanle Fadairo, who described the achievement, being the statistics showcased by a National platform, Project Management Information System (PMIS), as a clear demonstration of the strong institutional readiness of the Gateway State and unwavering commitment to women empowerment under the Scale-Up phase of the project.

According to Fadairo, "The feat reflects the visionary leadership and unwavering support of the present administration, as well as the political will of key stakeholders involved in the project."

She commended the strategic collaboration of the Ministries of Finance, Women Affairs and Social Development, Budget and Planning, alongside the dedication of the State Project Coordinating Unit (SPCU).

Providing a breakdown of the WAGs formation across the four implementing local Government Areas, Fadairo revealed that Ijebu-Ode recorded 760 groups, accounting for 38% of the total, while Ife Local Government recorded 569 groups, representing 28.45%.

She said, "Sagamu Local Government formed 378 WAGs, amounting to 18.9% while Ado-Odo/Ota recorded 293 groups, representing 14.64%", noting that the spread reflects effective community mobilisation and grassroots engagement across the project areas.

Ifon community demands white paper on boundary dispute resolution

By Lateef Ibrahim
Osogbo

The Board of Trustees of the Ifon-Orolu Progressive Union has called on Governor Ademola Adeleke to release the long-awaited white paper on the report of the 100-man committee regarding the Ifon-Ilobu boundary dispute.

In January 2025, Governor Adeleke set up a 100-member high-power land crisis resolution committee, comprising 25 representatives each from the affected communities of Ifon, Ilobu, and Erin, in addition to 25 members appointed by the state government.

The committee was tasked with investigating the underlying causes of the land dispute and recommending a permanent solution within two weeks.

Eleven months later, key figures from the Ifon-Orolu Progressive Union, including its national president, Alhaji Mohammed Oyedele and national secretary, Alhaji Segun Adeosun, expressed their concerns in a communiqué, Tuesday.

They commended local traditional leaders for fostering peace among the communities involved, stating that tranquility has returned to the entire Irepodun and Orolu local government areas of Osun state.

"We appreciate the efforts of the Osun State Government and urge the release of the White Paper from the 100-Man Committee on Ifon/Ilobu and Boundary Dispute Resolution."

"The publication of this document will enhance public confidence in transparency, accountability, and policy guidance, fostering engagement with stakeholders for a lasting resolution to communal conflicts," the communiqué stated.

Society of Diplomats (ISD), in collaboration with the MEG Cancer Foundation.

The initiative, which far exceeded its initial target of 200 patients, provided a wide range of services, including blood pressure checks, malaria parasite tests, Widal tests, hepatitis screening, random blood sugar and red blood cell checks.

Beneficiaries also received counselling, treatment for various ailments, surgical procedures, and referrals for more complicated cases.

Speaking at the occasion on Tuesday, Dr Onogwu, an indigene of Ogbadibo, explained that the outreach was conceived as a way of giving back to his community during the festive season.

He noted that the programme aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) on health, particularly the 2030 and 2063 targets, which emphasise preventive healthcare and access to basic medical services.

"Otukpa was deliberately chosen because of a huge deficit in healthcare delivery in the area," he said, lamenting that many residents suffer from preventable and treatable illnesses due to poor access to medical services.

He described the state of health facilities in the local government headquarters as pathetic, reflecting years of neglect, and urged both the Benue state government, led by Governor Hyacinth Alia, and the Ogbadibo local government council to prioritise grassroots healthcare by investing in infrastructure and personnel.

"On the first day of the outreach, about 340 patients were treated, while more than 300 attended on the second. Five cases were identified for surgical procedures, with three surgeries already carried out, including two major ones," he said.

Outreach coordinator, Dr Magdaline Dakogol, described the exercise as successful and revealed that the team hoped to extend the programme to a third day to accommodate more surgical cases and patients.

Ex-Kogi speaker Kolawole empowers over 500 Kabba-Bunu/Ijumu widows

By Oyibo Salihu
Lokoja

Over 500 widows in Kabba-Bunu/Ijumu federal constituency in Kogi state have benefitted from empowerment programme organised by the immediate past speaker of Kogi state House of Assembly, Prince Matthew Kolawole.

Speaking during the empowerment programme Tuesday in Kabba, Kabba-Bunu local government area of Kogi state, Prince Kolawole said he was motivated by the spirit of giving to the less privileged in the society, especially widows in the society.

The immediate past speaker, who described the empowerment programme as very dear to his heart, stated that over 500 widows across Kabba-Bunu / Ijumu federal constituency would benefit from the empowerment.

"This empowerment programme is the third I am giving out to widows in my constituency this year. I did one empowerment programme in the month of March and second phase in May and now in December 2025."

"I am distributing rice, cloths, beans and N10,000 and other palliatives to each of the 500 widows across my federal constituency."

"I lost my wife four years ago and even before her death, we have been doing this empowerment programme together and since I am still alive, I will continue to give back to my people because their joy is my joy and their comfort is my comfort," he said.

Prince Kolawole, who is a chieftain of the All Progressives Congress and a House of Representatives aspirant of the party in the forthcoming 2027 election, described the current representative of Kabba-Bunu Ijumu federal constituency as a "misplaced priority".

In his remarks, a stalwart of APC in Kogi West, Alfred Bello, commended Prince Kolawole for prioritising the welfare of widows in the constituency.

Information minister mourns Gombe journalists killed in fatal road crash

By Benjamin Samson
Abuja

The Minister of Information and National Orientation, Mohammed Idris, has expressed deep shock and sorrow over the tragic death of seven journalists, who were confirmed killed in a lone road crash in the Gombe South area of Gombe state on Monday.

A statement Tuesday by the media aide to the minister, Rabiu Ibrahim, disclosed that the incident occurred on Monday evening when the journalists were returning from a wedding ceremony in the Gombe South senatorial district.

Blueprint reports that the journalists travelled in solidarity with a colleague from the Nigerian Television Authority (NTA) who was getting married.

According to preliminary information from the Gombe State Sector Commander of the Federal Road Safety Corps, Samson Kaura, the crash was fatal.

The minister described the tragedy as a heartbreaking loss to the media community and the nation, noting that the journalists were committed voices who informed the public with courage, integrity, and professionalism.

"This is a harrowing moment.

Nigeria has lost dedicated voices, who informed, educated, and stood for truth. Their passing is a heavy blow to us all," he said.

The minister extended his condolences to the Nigeria Union of Journalists (NUJ), the Gombe State Council, and especially the families, friends, and colleagues of the deceased.

He prayed that God would grant them the strength to bear the painful loss.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with their families and loved ones. May Almighty God grant them comfort and grant the souls of the departed eternal rest," he added.

Nasarawa earmarks N145.8bn for infrastructure in 2026

By Mohammed Yangida
Lafia

The Nasarawa state government has earmarked N145.87 billion for infrastructural development in its 2026 budget, representing the largest single allocation in the fiscal plan.

The state Commissioner for Finance, Budget and Planning, Munira Abdullahi, disclosed this on Tuesday in Lafia during the official breakdown of the 2026 budget.

According to her, the education sector, which ranks second in the allocation scale, will receive N94.25 billion, while internal security, governance and general administration are jointly allocated N83 billion. Abdullahi explained that the total budget size for the 2026 fiscal year stands at N545.18 billion, following its passage by the Nasarawa state House of Assembly and subsequent assent by Governor Abdullahi Sule.

She reaffirmed the state government's commitment to accountability and transparency in the management of public funds, noting that her ministry would closely monitor the implementation of all projects, programmes and policies contained in the 2026 budget to ensure strict compliance.

The commissioner also urged accounting officers of Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs) to adhere strictly to the provisions of the appropriation law by ensuring that all revenues accruing to the state are efficiently collected, promptly remitted and properly accounted for, in order to achieve the state's fiscal and developmental objectives.

Abdullahi called for the continued cooperation and support of all stakeholders towards the successful implementation of the 2026 Budget of "Strategic Consolidation," aimed at fostering collective advancement and sustainable development in Nasarawa state.

APC Igueben LGA disowns malicious voice note targeting Gen. Esekhaigbe

By Patrick Ahanor
Benin City

The All Progressives Congress (APC) in Igueben Local Government Area has strongly condemned and distanced itself from a circulating voice note on social media that made unfounded and damaging allegations against General Cecil Esekhaigbe (Rtd).

The voice recording, allegedly credited to one Omorogie Obaze, attempted to malign General Esekhaigbe of misconduct relating to items purportedly meant for the people of Igueben.

A statement signed by leader of the All Progressives Congress (APC)

Igueben Local Government Area, Hon. Ephraim Aluobhosele, categorically stated that these claims were false, misleading, and completely detached from reality.

The statement read, "APC Igueben wishes to make it abundantly clear that the said individual does not speak for the party, nor does he have the mandate or authority to represent the views, opinion, position, or interests of the APC or the people of Igueben LGA. The party rejects the narrative in its entirety and condemns the reckless attempt to drag its leadership and respected figures into avoidable controversy."

"General Cecil Esekhaigbe (Rtd) is a revered elder, leader, and statesman whose name commands respect within APC circles across Igueben and beyond. He is widely acknowledged by party leaders as a man of integrity, discipline, and commitment to unity and progress."

"His counsel and contributions over the years have earned him admiration and high esteem among APC stakeholders, who continue to value his role as a stabilizing force within the party."

"The APC Igueben leadership views the circulation of this voice note as a deliberate attempt to sow division, provoke tension, and undermine the collective harmony enjoyed within the party and the community. Such actions run contrary to the principles of respect, responsibility, and truth that the APC stands for."

"We, therefore, call on party members, supporters, and the general public to ignore the malicious voice note content and refrain from amplifying falsehoods capable of disrupting peace."

"APC Igueben remains committed to unity, internal cohesion, and the protection of the reputation of its leaders against unfounded attacks."

"The party also reserves the right to pursue appropriate steps, through lawful and party channels, to address this matter and ensure accountability for actions that threaten the party unity and public trust."

"Once again, the APC Igueben LGA leadership reiterates its unwavering confidence in General Cecil Esekhaigbe (Rtd) and affirms the respect and honour he continues to enjoy among party leaders and stakeholders."

2027: Southeast 'll vote massively for Tinubu, Nwifuru – Umahi

By Amarachukwu Egwu-Agha
Abakaliki

The Minister of Works, Engineer David Umahi, has declared that the Southeast would massively support President Bola Tinubu and Ebonyi State Governor, Francis Nwifuru, in the 2027 general election.

Umahi disclosed this on Tuesday at his Uburu country home in Ohaozara Local Government Area of Ebonyi state while receiving political, religious and community groups on Christmas homage.

He said Southeast's interests were best protected through unity, political strategy and constructive engagement, not sentiments, insisting that President Tinubu had demonstrated commitment to the region's development.

"You ask me what the president has done for the Southeast, and I will tell you," Umahi said, urging people to focus on tangible projects rather than social media narratives.

The minister cited the Second Niger Bridge, Enugu-Onitsha (Nnewi) Road, Owerri-Aba Road and other federal highways as evidences of inclusion, describing them as the "real Biafra."

"The road to Onitsha is Biafra. The Second Niger Bridge is Biafra," he stated.

Umahi noted that although the Southeast had faced marginalisation, progress could only come through wisdom and national engagement, not hate or emotions.

He also urged Southeast residents across the country to be law-abiding and respectful to host communities.

Umahi emphasised that the region was now better included at the federal level and called for massive votes for Tinubu and Nwifuru in 2027.

Obi declares 2027 ambition, vows to fix economy, tackle insecurity

By Emeka Nze
Abuja

Former Labour Party presidential candidate, Mr Peter Obi, has declared that he was better equipped to lead Nigeria and confront its economic and security challenges ahead of the 2027 general polls.

Obi made the assertion during an interactive engagement with Nigerians on X Space on Tuesday, where he fielded questions from participants across the country.

He argued that his background in business and finance distinguished him from other potential contenders for the presidency.

According to the former Anambra state governor, Nigeria's economic and security problems were closely linked, stressing that fixing the economy would significantly reduce insecurity across the country.

"I know how to turn Nigeria around. I built my business from scratch and grew it into a major corporation. I have more experience than any candidate, including the sitting president. I am a finance person and I know how to manage finance," Obi said.

He added that his administration, if elected, would prioritise the growth of small businesses and local manufacturing, describing them as the backbone of successful economies around the world.

Obi also dismissed rumours that he was aligning with the African Democratic Congress (ADC) coalition merely to serve as a running mate, insisting that he would contest the 2027 presidential election.

"I will be on the ballot in 2027," he stated.

While reaffirming his support for the coalition, Obi said he had been involved from its early stages and urged Nigerians to approach the alliance with an open mind.

"None of us can predict tomorrow.

We cannot solve Nigeria's problems through bullying. We must put the right people in charge and work with others who share that vision," he said.

The former governor cautioned his supporters, popularly known as the Obidient Movement, against violence, insults and personal attacks, even in the face of provocation.

Responding to complaints from a supporter in Akwa Ibom state over verbal attacks by some political opponents, Obi urged calm and restraint.

"All the insults do not bother me. If calling me stupid or an idiot will solve Nigeria's problems, I am ready to go to court and change my name to 'Obi Stupid,'" he said.

He encouraged his supporters to counter misinformation with facts, engage opponents in constructive debates and pray for those who attack them.

"Engage with the truth, debate respectfully, and help others understand our position. That is how we move Nigeria forward," Obi added.

I advised Jonathan to drop Namadi Sambo but he refused – Nataro

By Donald Iorchar
Abuja

A former governorship candidate from Kebbi state, Mallam Isa Nataro, has reminded those supporting a return of former President Goodluck Jonathan, to desist from doing so, noting that Nigeria's Constitution does not stipulate three terms in office.

Nataro, while recalling that he advised Jonathan to drop the then Vice President, Arc. Namadi Sambo, in his second term bid but the former president turned down his advice.

Mallam Nataro who stated this in Abuja in an interview noted Jonathan did not do well as a leader.

He said it was Jonathan's negligence that made Nigeria to witness increase in the level of insecurity in Africa, accusing him of betraying "the trust of Boko Haram members and preventing the nation from achieving lasting peace during his administration."

"Jonathan was a reckless spender like our current governors who receive so much and show less dividends of democracy."

Nataro also called on the federal government to not to attack any African country to prevent increase in incidences of militancy, kidnaping, robbery and unemployment that would affect the continent.

He urged the President Bola Ahmed Tinubu to form a national committee on reform with a view to overhauling all the sectors.

This he said would prevent the military from embarking on procurement through the defence ministry but to concentrate on reforming the military institutions like the Defence Academy, designing and producing drones, robotics, among others.

Mallam Nataro turn down a request from his political Kebbi state associates to defect to ADC to contest as Governor of Kebbi state due to political pressure.

Gas cylinders caused Bagudo explosion – Kebbi govt, Police

By Muhammad Sadisu Abubakar
Birnin Kebbi

The Kebbi government and the state police command have debunked media reports that a bomb exploded at the Bagudo General Hospital early morning on Tuesday.

The Secretary to the State Government, Yakubu Bala Tafida, at a news briefing in Birnin Kebbi, debunked the misinformation that the explosion was a bomb blast.

He said, "On behalf of the people, the government and the amenable Governor Nasir Idris, I am making clarification that a fire outbreak engulfed the house of a Nurse located in the hospital premises, which led to a gas cylinder explosion.

"Security conducted an investigation and confirmed that a fire outbreak and not a bomb caused the blast.

"The administration of Comrade Nasir Idris reassures all residents of Kebbi of the protection of lives and property of the people."

Similarly, the Kebbi state Police command clarified that investigations and expert assessments confirmed that the incident was caused by an inferno, which overheated air-conditioning and refrigerator gas cylinders, resulting in the loud explosions experienced.

The clarification was contained in a statement in Birnin Kebbi, Tuesday, signed by the Police Public Relations Officer, SP Bashir Usman.

"Assessments conducted by EOD-CBRN experts, alongside the Commissioner of Police Tactical Team, confirmed that no explosives or aerial activity were involved.

"There was also no loss of life or injuries recorded, as verified by the on-site expert teams."

Osun LG crisis: APC alerts security over NULGE directive

By Lateef Ibrahim
Osogbo

Osun state chapter of the All Progressives Congress (APC) has alerted security agencies to remain vigilant against any potential disruptions to public peace associated with Nigeria Union of Local Government Employees (NULGE) directive on resumption of staff.

The APC faulted NULGE, led by Dr. Kehinde Nathaniel Ogungbangbe, for allegedly engaging in partisan politics and acting as an extension of Governor Ademola Adeleke's administration.

Dr. Ogungbangbe had recently announced a directive for local government staff to resume work on January 5, following a ten-month strike.

The APC's Director of Media and Information, Kola Olabisi, in a statement, Tuesday, accused NULGE's leadership of overstepping its authority, claiming it is beyond their remit to dictate terms regarding council executives.

The APC questioned NULGE's perceived role in interpreting court judgments, calling it a "grossly partisan" approach that undermines the union's integrity. They expressed concern over NULGE being perceived as a tool for the governor and his associates, particularly regarding the resolution of their prolonged absence from their workplaces.

The statement raised several points, questioning Ogungbangbe's awareness of ongoing legal proceedings related to the tenure of APC-reinstated chairmen and councilors, which remain pending at the Federal High Court in Osogbo.

The party highlighted the absurdity of public servants dictating conditions of engagement to their employers, indicating that such behavior is against civil service protocols.

"They are attempting to create chaos and instability that could disrupt the peace currently enjoyed in local government areas under the APC leadership," the statement asserted.

The APC reminded Ogungbangbe that the lawsuit initiated by NULGE to remove APC chairmen and councilors is still before the court, urging him to allow the legal system to function without interference.

Nigeria's biggest problem not corruption, says US-based engineer

By Hakeem Adegbenro
Abeokuta

A United States-based Nigerian engineer, Afisu Olabimtan, has stated that the biggest challenges facing the country is beyond corruption, saying that lack of proper planning, poor leadership vision, poverty and infrastructural decay are elements holding the country down.

Olabimtan lamented the slow pace of Nigeria's socio-economic growth, leadership gaps and the absence of long-term national planning frameworks.

Olabimtan stated this during the commissioning of Yewa Frontier Amusement Park and Yewa Frontier Radio, 109.2 FM in Ilaro, Ogun state.

He, however, emphasised that sustainable development is impossible without coordinated public-private initiatives aimed at rebuilding the nation's sectors.

"Nigeria's biggest problem is not just corruption. Lack of proper planning, poor leadership vision, poverty and infrastructural decay are holding the country down.

"We need effective public-private partnerships. Government alone cannot fix everything. The private sector must be empowered to contribute meaningfully.

"I am not cut out to be a politician. I have lived almost 50 years in the United States, and I am fulfilled. There is no political ambition in my investment.

"Nigeria is a one-source country, and that source is no longer sufficient. Our population has grown drastically. Lack of infrastructure and poverty are major issues.

"China and India were at the same level with Nigeria years ago. They are moving upward while Nigeria is going downward. This is due to poor planning and lack of vision," he stated.

In his remarks, the Olu of Ilaro and paramount ruler of Yewaland, Oba Kehinde Olugbenle, commended the investment and vision behind the project.

Akurueulo: Promoters of Igbo Igba-boi system set to be awarded, recognised

By Paul Okata
Abuja

The Akurueulo Awards is set to debut in 2026 as a new platform to recognise Igbo mentorship-based entrepreneurship, popularly known as the Igba-boi apprenticeship system.

The initiative was announced in a statement made available to Blueprint in Abuja on Tuesday, signed by the chief convener of the awards, Chief Allwell Okata.

In the statement, Okata said the programme is designed to acknowledge individuals and institutions operating within the Igbo trade apprenticeship framework, which has played a significant role in skills development and enterprise growth across Nigeria and the diaspora.

According to the organisers, the inaugural edition of the awards will be held in Abia State. It will focus on recognising outstanding mentors, former apprentices who have established successful businesses, market institutions, diaspora entrepreneurs and organisations supporting enterprise development within the Igbo commercial system.

The Igba-boi model, which is built around mentorship, apprenticeship, capital support and settlement, has existed for decades and has contributed to the growth of several commercial centres across the country. However, the Akurueulo Awards organisers noted that the system has largely operated without formal institutional recognition or policy backing.

Chief Okata said the awards are intended to draw attention to the economic relevance of the apprenticeship model and encourage broader engagement with its structure and outcomes.

The organisers also disclosed that the event will include documentary presentations and discussions focused on the history, structure and contemporary relevance of the Igba-boi system, alongside conversations on how the model can be adapted to current economic conditions. The inaugural ceremony is expected to attract public officials, traditional rulers, business leaders, policymakers and members of the Igbo diaspora.

The announcement comes amid ongoing concerns over youth unemployment and limited access to enterprise opportunities in Nigeria, with the organisers describing the apprenticeship system as one of the country's long-standing indigenous approaches to skills acquisition and business development.

for unity, preservation of heritage, and contributions to community development distinguished her for the honour.

According to the Agwam Kajju II, Myiriya Bajju symbolises peace, comfort, respect, and appreciation, reflecting the high esteem in which the Bajju people hold the recipient.

Speaking at the ceremony, Senator Sunday Marshall Katung expressed profound gratitude to the traditional council for the honour accorded his wife, describing it as a recognition of her selfless service to humanity.

He also called on the people to continue to live in peace, unity, and mutual understanding for sustainable development.

The event was marked by colourful cultural performances, traditional music, and warm expressions of goodwill from community leaders, dignitaries, and well-wishers who gathered to celebrate the historic occasion.

EFCC arraigns Bauchi commissioner Adamu over 'N5.7bn money laundering'

By Chizoba Ogbeche
Abuja

The Economic and Financial Crimes Commission (EFCC) on Tuesday arraigned Bauchi state Commissioner for Finance and former Branch Manager of Polaris Bank Plc Bauchi state branch, Yakubu Adamu.

Adamu was arraigned before Justice Emeka Nwite of the Federal High Court, Maitama, Abuja, over alleged money laundering offences involving N5,791,900,000 (Five Billion, Seven Hundred and Ninety-One million, Nine Hundred Thousand Naira).

He was arraigned alongside Ayab Agro Products and Freight Company Limited on a six-count charge bordering on money laundering, contrary to Section 21(a) and punishable under Section 21 of the Money Laundering (Prevention and Prohibition) Act, 2022.

At the commencement of proceedings, prosecution counsel, Samuel I. Chime, informed the court that the matter was for arraignment of the defendant on a six-count charge and prayed that the charge be read to enable the defendants take his plea.

"My Lord, this matter is for arraignment of the defendant on a six-count charge, and we humbly pray that the charge be read to the defendant for his plea to be taken," he said.

Count one reads: "That you Yakubu Adamu, while acting as Branch Manager of Polaris Bank Plc, Bauchi, alongside Ishaku Mohammed Aliyu, Managing Director of I.S. Makayye Investment Resources Limited, and Muntaka Mohammed Duguri, both currently at large, between June and December 2023, conspired to commit money laundering by facilitating the conversion, transfer, concealment and use of the sum of N4,650,000,000.00 availed by Polaris Bank under the guise of financing the supply of motorcycles to Bauchi State Government through Emmanuel Asomugha General Enterprises, which motorcycles were never supplied."

Count four reads: "That you, Yakubu Adamu sometime in 2023, acquired, used, retained and took possession or control of the sum of N976,000,000.00 paid into the account of I.S. Makayye Investment Resources Limited and subsequently transferred the same to several individuals and entities, knowing or having reasonable grounds to know that the funds constituted proceeds of unlawful activity connected to the diversion of the Polaris Bank facility meant for motorcycle supply which was never executed."

After the charges were read, the defendant pleaded not guilty to all the counts.

Following his plea, Chime urged the court to remand the defendant pending the determination of his bail application.

"In view of the defendant's not guilty plea, we respectfully apply that he be remanded in custody pending the hearing and determination of the bail application," he said.

Defence counsel, Gordy Uche, SAN, subsequently applied for bail, which was opposed by the prosecution.

After listening to arguments from both sides, Justice Nwite adjourned the matter to January 2, 2025 for ruling on the bail application and remanded him in EFCC custody.

Abbas mourns Gombe journalists, condoles NUJ

By Joshua Egbodo
Abuja

Speaker of the House of Representatives, Hon. Abbas Tajudeen has commiserated with the Nigerian Union of Journalists (NUJ) over the death of its members in a road crash in Gombe State.

The Speaker described the deaths as painful, shocking, and unfortunate.

The Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC) had confirmed seven deaths, with four other NUJ members sustaining injuries in a lone accident involving a bus belonging to the union in Gombe State on Monday. The journalists were returning from a wedding ceremony in Gombe South Senatorial District.

Speaker Abbas, in a condolence message issued through his Special Adviser on Media and Publicity, Musa Abdullahi Krishi on Tuesday lamented the incident.

The speaker commiserated with the families of the victims while extending his condolences to the NUJ at the state and national levels.

He prayed to God to grant the deceased eternal rest and give their families the fortitude to bear the loss. He wished the injured a quick recovery.

Giadom to Fubara: You won't win anything in Rivers without Wike

By Abdullahi Muhammad
Abuja

National vice chairman of the All Progressives Congress (APC, South South), Hon. Victor Giadom, has advised Governor Siminalayi Fubara of Rivers state to go through the Minister of the Federal Capital Territory, Nyesom Wike, to win anything in the state.

Giadom stated this on Tuesday during Wike's thank you visit to the people of Gokana local government area of Rivers.

Describing Wike as a "dependable leader" in Rivers politics, Giadom assured the minister that there would be no political force in Gokana other than Wike.

"I guarantee, on behalf of my brothers, that the Gokana people are for Wike and Tinubu and nobody will challenge Wike's influence in Gokana.

"Gokana is a 'no go area' for anybody, even Governor Fubara. For him to win anything in Gokana, he must pass through Wike," he said.

Also, Sen. Magnus Abe, a former senator that represented Rivers South East at the Senate, said the people of Gokana have already chosen their friends - Wike and Tinubu.

"Wike is a leader that unites and that is why we are united. If you follow Wike, you will not go home empty handed.

"The Ogoni people are with you and we will not go home empty handed. Please tell Tinubu not to bother coming to Gokana to campaign. We are for him," he said.

29 killed in 2 separate Jigawa road crashes

At least 29 people were confirmed dead in Jigawa state, Tuesday, following two separate road accidents in Dutse and Ringim local government areas on Tuesday and last Thursday.

Tuesday's crash occurred in Dutse and involved two Volkswagen Golf cars and a tipper truck.

The Jigawa Sector Commander of the Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC), Umar Matazu, confirmed that 18 passengers lost their lives in the head-on collision along the Dutse-Kwanar Huguma road.

Matazu told reporters that the accident occurred around 1:00 p.m. when one vehicle suffered a tyre burst while travelling at high speed.

He said the driver lost control, crossed into the opposite lane, and collided head-on with an oncoming Golf car. Moments later, a tipper truck travelling in the same lane, crashed into their wreckage.

One of the Golf cars was reportedly carrying 14 family members travelling to a wedding ceremony. There were no survivors from that vehicle. The victims included men, women, and children.

Matazu said Tuesday's accident in Dutse followed a similar fatal accident last Thursday along the Ringim-Kano highway near Bagewu village.

That lone accident involved a red Golf 3 saloon, driven by a 45-year-old man from Katsina state, which was severely overloaded with 20 passengers—six men, eight women, and six children.

While in motion, Matazu said the vehicle's front tyre burst, causing the driver to lose control and crash into a tree. The accident resulted in 11 deaths and nine injuries.

The FRSC has repeatedly identified overspeeding and overloading as the leading causes of road fatalities in Jigawa state. (Premium Times)

The Nigerian Airspace Management Agency (NAMA) has explained that a recent publication by a national newspaper which, while highlighting the perennial challenges of Harmattan weather, advanced claims that could mislead the public regarding the state of air navigation safety and the serviceability of landing facilities across Nigerian airports.

The Director, Public Affairs and Consumer Protection, Dr Abdullahi Musa in a press statement said while seasonal meteorological conditions are a legitimate subject of public discourse, it is essential that such discussions are anchored

Nigerian economy expected to grow 4.49% in 2026 - CBN

By David Agba with agency report

Nigeria's economy is expected to grow faster in 2026 with inflation slowing sharply as reforms, improved investor confidence and gradual easing of monetary policy support macroeconomic stability.

The Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) disclosed this in its Macroeconomic Outlook for Nigeria, 2026 published on Tuesday.

The outlook also comes as the global economy slowed in 2025. Growth in major economies eased to 3.20 per cent from 3.30 per cent in 2024, weighed down by trade tensions and weaker demand.

Global inflation, however, moderated to 4.20 per cent, supported by lower energy costs and improving supply chains.

"The Nigerian economy is expected to continue expanding, with growth projected at 4.49 per cent in 2026," the report said.

The bank said the projection hinges on "continued gains from broad-based structural reforms and a gradually easing monetary policy stance," the CBN said looking ahead.

The bank said these measures are expected to improve the business environment, boost investor confidence and support private-sector-led growth.

Higher oil production, supported by improved security in production areas, and investments in local refining are also expected to lift output.

Nigeria's economy grew an estimated 3.89 per cent in 2025, up from 3.38 per cent in 2024, supported by both oil and non-oil sectors. Inflation eased during the year, following tight monetary policy, relative stability in the exchange rate and improved coordination between fiscal and monetary authorities.

Nigeria's headline inflation has eased significantly this year, dropping for the eighth consecutive month to 14.45 per cent in November, down from 16.05 per cent in October, according to the National Bureau of Statistics. The figure is the lowest annual inflation rate in recent years and reflects slowing food price growth, a trend that is easing cost-of-living pressures for many households.

Inflation is expected to moderate further in 2026, easing pressure on households.

NAMA clears air on harmattan operations on technical accuracy, regulatory context, and an informed understanding of how aviation safety systems function.

He said "Unfortunately, some of the assertions made in the referenced report risk creating unnecessary public anxiety by conflating weather-induced operational limitations with alleged infrastructure inadequacies.

"NAMA therefore considers it necessary, in the overriding interest of public confidence and factual clarity, to place the following facts on record.

"Contrary to insinuations that Nigeria's landing facilities are poorly maintained or unfit for Harmattan operations, NAMA states unequivocally that all navigational aids (NAVAIDs) at Federal Government airports are routinely maintained, flight-checked, and calibrated in strict compliance with International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) Standards and Recommended Practices (SARPs) and the Nigerian Civil Aviation Regulations (Nig CARs).

"These processes are not discretionary. They are mandatory safety requirements, conducted using NAMA's dedicated flight inspection and calibration aircraft, operated by highly trained technical and flight inspection personnel. Equipment such as Instrument Landing Systems (ILS), VHF Omnidirectional Range (VOR), Distance Measuring Equipment (DME), and other CNS/ATM infrastructure undergo periodic ground and airborne verification to ensure operational accuracy, signal integrity, and safety reliability.

"Furthermore, all such

We won't extend recapitalisation deadline, NAICOM insists

David Agba and Benjamin Umuteme
Abuja

The National Insurance Commission (NAICOM) has insisted that it would not extend the deadline for recapitalisation of insurance companies.

National Commissioner for Insurance Mr. Olusegun Ayo Omosehin, who said this while fielding questions from Insurance journalists in Abuja, added that any serious player in the industry should be able to meet the deadline.

The deadline for recapitalisation of insurance companies is 30th July 2026.

Explaining why the date would not be extended, the National Commissioner, who was represented by Deputy Commissioner for Insurance (Technical), Dr. Usman J. Jankara, said that the deadline is a product of the Nigeria Insurance Industry Reform Act (NIIRA) explaining that the Commission would first need to go to the National Assembly to amend the Act before the deadline can be amended.

He said: "Recapitalisation deadline will not be extended. It is in the law; it is not a journey we are willing to embark upon. Serious players should be able to meet the deadline."

Recapitalisation will draw funds into the industry. The more funds in the industry, the more you will take the operators serious. The exercise will bring new insurance companies that are viable and able to add value for Nigerians.

"The essence of capitalization is to force entities to raise additional funds. One of the easiest mechanisms for raising funds is through stock exchange, right?

"We have a very clear roadmap as to how to facilitate this. We've gotten assurances from the SEC to the effect that rather than having to wait for three months, they are able to conclude the request to raise funds within a short period of less than a week. So, for us, that is a good thing."

Omosehin said the twin effect of inflation and fall in the value of the naira played a role in the need for the recapitalisation of the industry.

"And one of the reasons we're having the industry capitalised is the fall in the value of the currency."

"And the fact that inflation has made a mess of the 2.5 and 5 billion minimum capital requests for entities. 2 billion as of 2007, when that exercise happened, was less than about $5 million. It was equal to about $20 million."

"Today, 2 billion is less than $2 million. So that was the narrative. It wasn't that it will impact it."

"It won't. And what it's done is to draw capital to the sector. And we think that beyond having companies recapitalized is the fact that we're going to have more serious players in the insurance industry."

activities are carried out under continuous regulatory oversight by the Nigerian Civil Aviation Authority (NCAA), which audits compliance, validates calibration cycles, and enforces corrective actions where necessary.

In line with global best practices, NAMA does not operate in opacity.

Geo-Fluids Plc to raise N22.871bn in private placement

By Benjamin Umuteme
Abuja

Geo-Fluids Plc says it plans to raise the sum of N22,871,166,244.00 through special placement, private placement, public offer, rights issue, extraordinary grant of shares to enable it fully run its operations.

This formed part of the resolution by the shareholders at its Annual General Meeting (AGM), which was held Monday in Abuja.

According to its 2013 – 2024 Audited Statement of Affairs, "That the Directors be and are hereby authorized to raise additional capital of up to (Twenty-Two Billion, Eight Hundred and Seventy-One Million, One Hundred and Sixty-Six Thousand, Two Hundred and Forty-Four Naira Only) for the Company by way of special placement, private placement, public offer, rights issue, extraordinary grant of shares and/or any other such methods as they deem fit either in Nigeria or internationally, on or at such dates and on such terms and conditions as shall be determined by the Directors, subject to the applicable regulatory requirements in the relevant jurisdictions as may be applicable for the Capital raise."

Also, the board of directors got approval to increase its share capital from 042,128,833,756 to N25 billion. This, the Company said would be done by creating an additional 45,742,332,488 ordinary shares of 50 kobo each.

According to Geo-Fluids, each share will rank parri passu in all respects with the existing ordinary shares of the Company.

Addressing Directors and Shareholders, Chairman, Board of Directors of the Company, Kabiyesi Jacob Esan, said the AGM is a testimony that the Company is on the path of recovery after very turbulent times.

He said, "When I assumed leadership of this Company on 1st September 2018, Geo-Fluids Plc was going through a prolonged and challenging period of receivership. I am happy to report the receivership was successfully vacated in 2023. However, the mandate was clear: exit receivership, rebuild governance, ensure compliance, and chart a new path toward sustainable growth."

Nigeria's refining ambitions to drive Africa's growth momentum
-Analysts

By Blessing Anaro
Lagos

Africa's real GDP growth is projected to rise to 4.4 per cent in 2026, reflecting a continued recovery from recent external shocks. Sub-Saharan Africa is expected to expand by about 4.3 per cent, supported by easing inflation and stronger private consumption and investment.

But analysts say this stem from Nigeria's refining ambitions and Angola's revived offshore exploration to the growing scale of state-owned assets.

The continent has significant growth potential projected to be among the fastest-growing regions globally but the growth would remain fragile unless fundamental structural issues are addressed.

Africa has one of the fastest-growing working-age populations globally. Yet job creation, particularly for youth, is lagging behind. Widespread youth unemployment and underemployment remain among the most intractable social and economic challenges, according to the World Bank. This mismatch between demographic growth and job opportunities contributes to social unrest and increased informal sector participation.

However, the continent continues to assert itself as a strategic economic player, with landmark investments in energy, refining, and industrial capacity underscoring renewed confidence in domestic production and reform-driven markets.

"From Nigeria's refining ambitions and Angola's revived offshore exploration to the growing scale of state-owned assets and debates around debt sustainability at the G20, these developments reflect Africa's push toward self-reliance, investment attraction, and long-term resilience," said Rewane Bismarck, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Financial Derivatives Company (FDC) Limited.

Heightened insecurity, including coups in the Sahel and the Horn of Africa, undermines investor confidence and disrupts economic planning. Political instability in West Africa and weak governance pose significant risks to growth, investment, and social cohesion.

NDIC reaffirms commitment to strengthen depositor protection

By David Agba
Abuja

The Managing Director/Chief Executive of the Nigeria Deposit Insurance Corporation (NDIC), Mr. Thompson Oluadare Sunday, has reaffirmed the Corporation's strict compliance with fiscal and financial regulations, including the provisions of the Fiscal Responsibility Act (FRA) 2007.

Sunday made this known during a courtesy visit to the Managing Director/Chief Executive of the Ministry of Finance Incorporated (MOFI), Dr. Armstrong Takang, as part of NDIC's ongoing engagement with key stakeholders following his formal assumption of office in July 2025, noted that the NDIC has consistently remitted the required percentage of its earnings to the federal government.

According to him, NDIC takes financial accountability and transparency seriously, stressing that the Corporation complies fully with statutory remittance obligations, including the payment of 20 per cent of gross earnings or 80 per cent of net surplus to the Federal Government, as applicable. He added that NDIC also submits its financial statements ahead of statutory deadlines.

The NDIC Managing Director/Chief Executive explained that this culture of compliance aligns with the Corporation's role as a key institution within Nigeria's financial safety-net, charged with protecting depositors and promoting confidence in the banking system. He emphasized that adherence to fiscal discipline remains central to NDIC's credibility and effectiveness.

Sunday further disclosed that NDIC also complies with the Federal Government's 50 per cent cost-to-income ratio policy, although he noted that the policy poses operational constraints.

He explained that the deductions affect NDIC's ability to build a strong Deposit Insurance Fund, which is needed to respond effectively to bank failures.

Sunday described MOFI as a critical stakeholder, noting that the Federal Government, through MOFI, holds a 40 per cent equity stake in NDIC. He said sustained collaboration with MOFI is essential to ensuring that NDIC continues to meet its obligations to government while effectively safeguarding depositors' funds.

In his remarks, Dr. Takang commended the NDIC for its exemplary collaborative spirit and acknowledged the Corporation's compliance with fiscal regulations. He assured that MOFI would continue to engage the Federal Ministry of Finance on NDIC's behalf, noting that a strong NDIC is vital to sustaining confidence in Nigeria's financial system.

JMG and Jamara Home extend support to children living with cancer

By Blessing Anaro,
Lagos

JMG Limited, an electro-mechanical company, alongside its subsidiary, Jamara Home, a prominent wholesale and retail hub for electronics and home appliances, brought joy, comfort, and renewed hope to children living with cancer this yuletide through a partnership with The Dorcas Cancer Foundation.

The companies sponsored the Foundation's annual Christmas celebration themed "Basket of Love," a heartwarming event that saw children presented with thoughtful gifts and treated to a festive experience designed to lift spirits and spread cheer.

As part of their support, JMG and Jamara Home donated Chemo Kit boxes and made cash contributions to further the Foundation's mission of providing care, advocacy, and hope to children battling cancer.

The yuletide celebration was a true expression of compassion, kindness, and community. It featured special performances by legendary musician Cobhams Asuquo and Precious Mac, first runner-up of Nigerian Idol Season 10, fillin. the venue with music, laughter, and unforgettable moments for the children, their families, caregivers, and supporters.

Speaking at the event, Anthonia Ogunsanya, Manager, Customer Support at Jamara Home, noted that the initiative aligns with the company's corporate social responsibility focus and core values. "We are proud to make a difference in the lives of these children. Partnering with The Dorcas Cancer Foundation for their annual end-of-year celebration reflects our commitment to compassion, kindness, and community support."

Mouka CCO Oladimeji Osingunwa bags creative, branding icon award

By Segun Odunewu,
Lagos

Mouka, Nigeria's foremost foam and bedding manufacturer and a flagship indigenous brand under the Dolidol International Group, has announced that its Chief Commercial Officer, Mr. Oladimeji Adekunle Osingunwa, has been selected as the recipient of the Creative & Branding Icon Award 2025.

The prestigious recognition, organised by Marketing Space, Nigeria's leading brands and marketing communications magazine, is part of the annual Brand Handlers Summit & Awards.

According to the organisers, Mr. Osingunwa emerged after a rigorous evaluation process conducted by a panel of respected industry assessors who examined originality, strategic depth, and measurable impact on brand and business performance.

Marketing Space noted that Mr. Osingunwa's contributions to brand development and the evolution of Nigeria's commercial landscape stood out for their consistency, creativity, and results-driven approach, particularly in strengthening brand equity and consumer engagement.

Widely regarded as one of Nigeria's commercial icons, Mr. Osingunwa has, in his role as Chief Commercial Officer at Mouka Ltd, played a central role in refining go-to-market strategies, deepening consumer relevance, and driving sustainable growth in an increasingly competitive market.

His leadership has been credited with repositioning Mouka as a trusted household brand while maintaining strong commercial performance.

Born in Ketu, Kosofe Local Government Area of Lagos State, and with roots in Ilisan Remo, Ogun State, Mr. Osingunwa's early life was shaped by resilience, cultural values, and diverse experiences.

These formative influences, he has often noted, underpin his people-centred leadership philosophy and his belief that strong brands are built by first investing in people. His professional career spans several leading multinational and indigenous organisations, including Twinning Ovaltine, SC Johnson, Cadbury Nigeria, and Print Inks Nigeria Limited.

Across these organisations, he consistently delivered value by strengthening routes to market, sharpening brand strategies, and accelerating growth, often achieving double-digit business expansion through disciplined and creative brand building.

SWAN mourns deceased Journalists, Anthony Joshua's associates

By Ikenna Okonkwo
Abuja

The National Leadership of Sports Writers Association of Nigeria (SWAN) has commiserated with the families, Nigeria Television Authority (NTA), Nigeria Union of Journalists (NUJ) and Gombe State Government Over the tragic loss of seven Journalists in a ghastly accident on Monday.

In a statement on Tuesday, through the Association's Secretary-General, Amb. Ikenna Okonkwo, SWAN President, Mr. Isaiah Benjamin, described the accident as unfortunate while praying God to console those they left behind.

He said, "The news of the death of these bright Stars in journalism profession came to me as a shock. I have been so sad and speechless since yesterday. Losing seven Journalists at the same time in such a devastating manner is so painful to say the least. My prayer is that God Almighty comfort their relatives and all of us in the profession".

The deceased died on Monday in a car crash along the Billiri-Kumo road in Gombe State as they were returning from a colleague's wedding in Kaltungo.

Four others were said to have sustained injuries and are in hospital receiving treatment.

Also, SWAN President has condoled World Boxing Superstar, Anthony Joshua, for the demise of his two Associates who passed on immediately in a fatal accident along Lagos-Ibadan Expressway in Ogun State.

He said such accident which claimed the lives of bubbling individuals who are of immense assistance to Joshua, was regrettable.

"On behalf of teeming Sports Journalists in Nigeria, I commiserate with Anthony Joshua and pray that God console him and grant his speedy recovery from the injuries he sustained from the accident. Joshua's life will continue to make impact and inspire young generations now and in the future," he said.

Joshua recently knocked out Boxer and popular YouTuber Jake Paul in a bout that further brightened his career progression.

Super Eagles midfielder Raphael Onyedikawas the cynosure of eyes in Fes as he scored a brace in an experimental Eric Chelle's side soared past 10-man Uganda 3-1 to hit the Round of 16 of the 2025 AFCON with a perfect record of three wins in as many matches.

Nigeria won Group C with nine points from three matches, while Tunisia finished runners-up with four points after they were forced to a 1-1 draw by Tanzania in the other group game.

Tanzania thus finished on two points, a point ahead of bottom team Uganda.

Coach Eric Chelle rested his main team for this final group game in Fes as he made as many as eight changes from the Starting XI against Tunisia at the weekend with only stand-in captain Victor Osimhen, Bruno Onyemaechi and Calvin Bassey the survivors.

Paul Onuachu put Nigeria ahead on 28 minutes, when he prodded home a pass into the box by Fisayo Dede-Bashiru.

The Cranes of Uganda were reduced to 10 men, when substitute goalkeeper Jamal Salim was sent off in the 55th minute, when he handled Osimhen's shot at goal from outside his box.

...Get $30,000 each for reaching Round of 16

Super Eagles players will receive $30,000 each for making it to the Round of 16 at the ongoing 2025 Africa Cup of Nations.

According to several credible reports, the Nigeria Football Federation, NFF, initially proposed $15,000 per player but the offer was rejected by the players.

The two parties then settled for $30,000, an improvement on what they earned at the last AFCON in Côte d'Ivoire.

They have also reached agreement on bonus for the latter rounds of the competition.

The Super Eagles booked a spot in the knockout round after a nervy 3-2 win over the Carthage Eagles of Tunisia last Saturday and walloped Uganda 3-1 yesterday night in Fes.

Midfielder Onyedika then doubled the advantage in the 62nd minute, when he was set up by Samuel Chukwueze and five minutes later both players again combined for the Club Brugge star to complete his brace.

In the 75th minute, Mato pulled a goal back for 10-man Uganda after he was set up by Okello.

ABS FC part ways with Coach Yusuf Salihu

Abubakar Bukola Saraki (ABS) Ilorin FC has parted ways with its Head Coach, Yusuf Salihu, following a mutual agreement between both parties.

Coach Salihu was appointed on September 9, 2025, and led the team through the first stanza of the 2025/2026 Nigeria National League (NNL) season. Under his guidance, ABS Ilorin FC recorded three wins and four defeats, finishing fourth on the Conference C standings.

The management of ABS Ilorin FC appreciates Coach Yusuf Salihu for his commitment, professionalism, and dedication during his time with the club, and wishes him success in his future endeavours.

To ensure continuity and avoid any leadership vacuum, the club has appointed Ogundesi Alade as Interim Head Coach.

Coach Ogundesi, a familiar figure within the ABS Ilorin FC setup, had previously worked with Cameroonian Coach Tony Encho during his tenure at the club. The management is confident in his ability to steady the team and effectively guide the players during this transitional period.

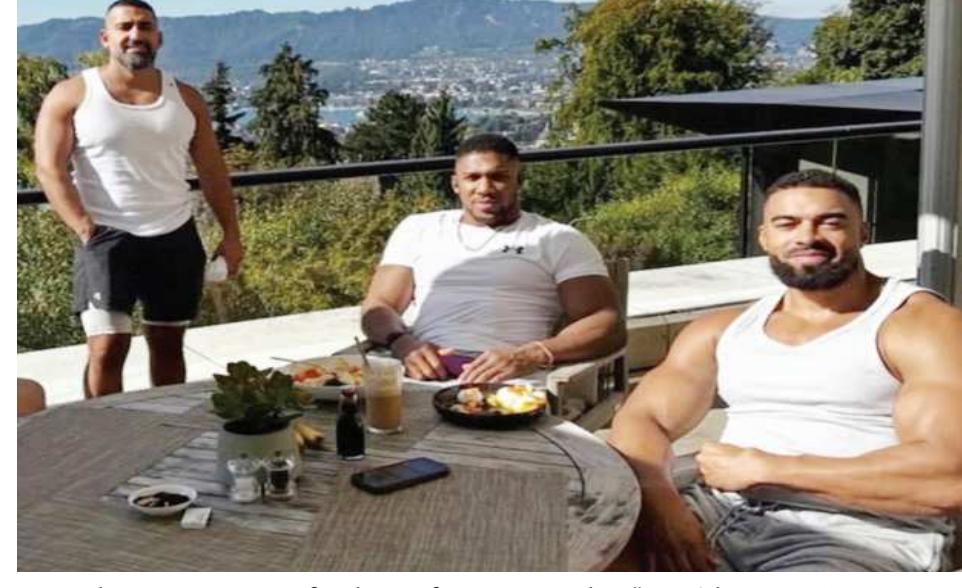

NSC DG, Olopade pays visit to Anthony Joshua

The Director General of the National Sports Commission (NSC), Hon. Bukola Olopade, has expressed deep sympathy to global boxing star Anthony Joshua and the families of victims involved in a fatal road accident that occurred on Monday, December 29, at the Lagos-Ibadan Expressway.

In a moment that transcended official statements and underscored the human side of leadership, Hon. Olopade swiftly paid a visit to former world heavyweight boxing champion, on the behalf of the chairman of the Commission, Mallam Shehu Dikko and the entire staff of the Commission.

Hon. Olopade described the accident as tragic and deeply saddening, while thanking God for the survival of the boxing icon. Unfortunately, Joshua's strength and conditioning coach, SinaGhami and personal trainer, Kevin Latif Ayodele lost their lives in the crash.

"On behalf of the National Sports Commission and the entire Nigerian sports family, I express my heartfelt condolences to the families who lost their loved ones in this unfortunate accident," Hon. Olopade said.

"We thank God for the life of Anthony Joshua. Our thoughts and prayers are with him as he recovers, and we wish him a full and speedy return to good health."

The NSC Director General also used the opportunity to reiterate the importance of road safety and responsible driving.

"We urge all road users to exercise patience, caution, and responsibility at all times," he added.

...Onyedika named MOTM

Raphael Onyedika won the Man of the Match award following Nigeria's dominant 3-1 victory over the Cranes of Uganda on Tuesday night in Fes, Morocco.

Onyedika, who was handed his first start of the competition put up an impressive display in midfield.

The 24-year-old registered two goals for the Super Eagles in the Group C encounter played at the Complexe Sportif de Fès.

The Club Brugge midfielder scored Nigeria's second goal of the game in the 63rd minute.

The 25-year-old bagged Eric Chelle's side third four minutes later.

Onyedika was in action for the entire duration of the game.

He has so far netted three times in 19 appearances for the three-time African champions.
